ASSESSED TAXES.

No. 593.

The 5th February 1886.

In exercise of the powers conferred upon him by Act II of 1886, and of all other power enabling him in this behalf, the Honourable the President in Council is pleased to make the following rules under the said Act:—

1. The time within which amounts deducted from salary, annuity, pension, or gratuity paid by a local authority under section 8, sub-section (1) of the Act must be paid to the credit of the Government of India is fixed at one week from the date of payment of the salary, pension, annuity, or gratuity. The payment to the credit of the Government shall be made by remitting the amount to the Collector with a statement giving the following particulars for each person from whom the tax has been realised:—

- (1) Name.
- (2) Period for which the salary has been paid.
- (3) Amount of salary paid.
- (4) Amount of tax.

2. The return required by section 10 of the Act shall be in Form A hereto appended.

3. Any sums, such as payments to regimental mess or band funds or the like, compulsorily stopped from salary by the orders, or with the approval, of Government, shall be deducted from the salary previous to assessment.

A portion of salary withheld in pursuance of an order of a Court is not a sum compulsorily stopped from salary within the meaning of this rule.

4. A deduction made from the amount of salary, pension, or annuity liable to assessment on account of a payment made to a life insurance company must be supported by the receipt of the insurance company for the payment and a copy thereof. When the deduction is claimed by a servant of the Government, or of a local authority, the officer paying the salary, pension, or annuity will compare the original receipt with the copy, return the original, and attach the copy to the salary, pension or annuity bill if the payee is a Government servant, and to the statement forwarded with the amount of the tax realised under Rule 1, if the payee is a servant of a local authority.

Where the Collector is satisfied that the original receipt of the insurance company cannot be produced without an amount of delay, expense, or inconvenience which, under the circumstances of the case, would be unreasonable, he may accept such other proof of payment of the premium as he may deem sufficient.

5. The amounts exempted from assessment by section 5, sub-section (1), clause (g) of the Act and by rule 4 above shall not be deducted from income for the purpose of determining whether the income is liable to the tax, or of determining the rate at which the tax shall be levied.

6. The amount to be assessed under section 24, sub-section (1) of the Act on account of a building occupied by the owner thereof shall not in any case exceed 10 per cent. of the aggregate income of the owner derived from all sources. It will not, however, be understood from this that a maximum of 10 per cent. of the aggregate income of the owner is to be considered equivalent to the letting-value of his house. The letting-value will, in all cases, be ascertained on the best data available, in view of the circumstances of the locality in which the house is situated.

7. Salaries, annuities, and pensions paid in April 1886, though on account of March 1886, shall be added to the tax.

8. After the close of the year of assessment each Accountant-General or other auditing officer shall submit Return No. I in the form hereto appended to such officer as the Local Government may direct.

9. The certificates referred to in the second column of Part III of Schedule II of the Act shall be in Form B or in Form C hereto appended.

10. Any claim under section 5, sub-section (1), clause (e) of the Act to exemption from the levy of the tax on the interest of securities employed solely for religious or public charitable purposes within the meaning of that clause must be supported by a certificate from the Collector, which shall be in Form D hereto appended.

11. In the case of securities, the interest on which is payable by the Government of India, the amount deducted on account of the tax under section 13, sub-section (1) of the Act shall be paid to the credit of the Government on the same day as the payment of the interest is made.

12. In the case of securities, the interest on which is not payable by the Government of India, the amount so deducted shall be paid to the credit of the Government within one week from the date on which interest is paid. The person deducting the amount should pay it to the credit of the Government by remitting the amount to the Collector with a statement showing the following particulars:

- (1) Name of owner.
- (2) Description of security.
- (3) Number of „
- (4) Date of „
- (5) Amount of „
- (6) Period for which interest is drawn.
- (7) Amount of interest.
- (8) Amount of tax.

13. Interest on securities belonging to Service Funds shall not be assessed.

14. After the close of the year of assessment each Accountant-General and Comptroller shall submit Return No. II in the form hereto appended to such officer as the Local Government may direct.

15. In calculating the amount of tax payable, the amount due on a fraction of a rupee shall be neglected. Thus the tax to be realised on a monthly salary of Rs. 166-10-8 is Rs. 4-5-2 only.

16. All public servants are forbidden to make public or disclose, except for the purpose of the working of Act II of 1886, any information contained in documents delivered or produced with respect to assessments under Part IV of the said Act, and any public servant committing a breach of this rule shall be deemed to have committed an offence under section 166 of the Indian Penal Code.

17. Power to make further rules is hereby delegated to the several Local Governments.

18. Each Local Government will prescribe form of registers to be maintained by Collectors and others for the purpose of showing the demand and collections of the tax, the various classes of incomes assessed, and the working of the several provisions of the Act.

19. After the close of the year of assessment each Local Government will submit to the Government of India in the Financial Department a report on the working of the Act.

20. The following returns in the forms hereto appended will be submitted with that report —

HYDROGRAPHIC NOTICE.

(Superseding all previous Hydrographic Notices.)

BAY OF BENGAL.—COAST OF ORISSA.

The following information, resulting from a recent survey of False Point Harbour, has been furnished by the Deputy Commissioner to the Calcutta Port Trust, in the Bengal Government steamer Undaunted in January 1886.

[All Bearings are Magnetic. Variation $2^{\circ} 40'$ E. in 1886.]

FALSE POINT HARBOUR is formed by the Island of Dowdeswell (called Nurrea Banga Nassa), which is merely a sand cay with short jungle and coarse grass extending in a North and N. W. direction; the extreme Northerly point of dry land is now 6 6 miles N. N. E. of the Light-house, and consists of a few broken pieces of land formed into islands with very low jungle upon them.

REDDIE HEAD has been entirely washed away during the cyclone of September 1885, but the sand spit which formerly existed has gone further seaward.

HOOKEY TOLLAH, the small location on the inner side of Dowdeswell Island where the Port Officer and Custom House Officers resided, has been entirely washed away, and there is now only the Refuge-house and a few cocoanut-trees left standing.

THE REFUGE-HOUSE is painted white, and can be easily distinguished from seaward.

THE OUTER COAST-LINE extends two miles East from the Light-house, and consists of low islands covered with jungle. The shape of these Islands are continually changing on account of the alteration in the mouth of the Mahanádi river; but they trend-gr. round until they meet Dowdeswell Island.

The water is steep-to, except off the mouth of the Mahanádi river, where the bar extends about one mile seaward and in Easterly gales a very heavy surf gets up right along this beach.

THE INNER COAST-LINE of the bay—extending from False Point Light-house to Bakood Creek, embracing what was formerly known as Plowden Island, past the entrance to Jumboo river and towards Temple Point—is formed of high, dense jungle fringed deeply with mangroves and extensive mud flats.

From Temple Point to the South Baroni river the land is low and covered with coarse grass and scrub, interspersed here and there with thick jungle and mangrove swamps; the foreshore is fringed deeply with sand which forms the high-water line.

JUMBOO LOCATION was built in 1876, and consists of a Telegraph office, Public Works Department bungalow, and a Custom's warehouse; it is situated on the left bank of the Soonta creek, and shows well up from the anchorage. The Port Officer and the Customs authorities, since Hookey Tollah has been washed away, reside there.

FALSE POINT LIGHT-HOUSE, situated in latitude $20^{\circ} 19' 20''$ N., longitude $86^{\circ} 44' 27''$ E., on a sand hill surrounded with jungle, is a late masonry tower of reddish colour with a large ten-pointed white star in the centre facing South-East; it exhibits at 126 feet above the level of high-water an occulting white light of the first order, obscured four seconds once in every half minute, and illuminates an arc of 200° , viz., from S. S. W. through West and North to N. E. $\frac{1}{4}$ N. The light is visible in clear weather from a distance of 19 miles.

The light was first exhibited in the year 1838, but the present first class dioptric light was exhibited in 1880, and converted into an occulting light in 1884.

CAUTION.—During the months from December till March fog banks and mist occasionally rise on the land and materially interfere with the brilliancy of the light, and in some instances causes it to show a deep red colour, or disappear as if suddenly extinguished. Vessels cannot, therefore, during these months be too cautious when closing the land in the vicinity of the light, and should keep the lead going frequently.

A very good guide, when closing the land and the light not seen, is to carefully examine the nature of the bottom, and immediately the navigator finds sand mixed with mud the vessel's head should be put off shore and wait for daylight.

THE STORM-WAVE of the 22nd September 1885 rose at the Light-house 14.6 feet above the mean sea level, or 19.7 feet above low-water; a stone has been let into the ground to mark the spot.

BEACONS AND CONSPICUOUS MARKS.—The principal beacon on the North part of Dowdeswell Island is an iron tripod, surmounted with a black ball, 40 feet in height, situated 5.6 miles N. N. E. from False Point Light-house, but seaward of this the sand at low-water extends in a N. W. $\frac{1}{4}$ W. direction for about 800 yards, and will probably still keep extending. A small iron beacon, surmounted with a cross, is placed N. 45° W., 565 yards from the tripod, and with the two in line makes a good anchorage mark for deep vessels.

Three quarters of a mile within Temple Point, or the West shore of the bay, is a remarkable tree, the highest in its vicinity, and known as Temple-tree, with a pole and black basket projecting from its top, which bears from Dowdeswell Island tripod W. $\frac{1}{4}$ S., distant about 4 miles.

The only mark of importance on the Southern shore is Prince Arthur's beacon, situated on the sand hills off Prince Arthur's Point, Dowdeswell Island; it consists of a pole and cage, painted white, and bears from Dowdeswell tripod S. $\frac{1}{4}$ E., distant $2\frac{1}{2}$ miles.

BUOYS.—Fairway buoy, black and white chequered, with staff and white cage lies in $4\frac{1}{2}$ fathoms at lowest low-water spring tides with Temple-tree bearing W. S. W. and Dowdeswell tripod S. $\frac{1}{2}$ W., distant $1\frac{1}{4}$ miles.

OUTER WESTERN BUOY, a black conical buoy with staff and black cage, lies in 18 feet, N. W. $\frac{1}{4}$ N., 7 cables from the tripod, and indicates the Western side of the Fairway channel.

SPIT BUOY, red can buoy, surmounted with a spire and red cage, lies off Reddie Point in 21 feet. N. N. W. $\frac{3}{4}$ W. from Dowdeswell tripod and indicates the extreme North spit of sand, and also marks the Eastern side of the Fairway channel.

A small red nun buoy, about one cable to the W. S. W. of the spit buoy, marks the extreme shoal water off the apex of the sand at Reddie Head.

FOUR buoys denote the boundary of the Inner anchorage; on the Western limit two black buoys, and on the Eastern limit two red buoys; each buoy lies in about 12 feet at lowest low-water.

ANCHORAGE.—The Outer anchorage, for vessels making a short stay, is Tripod beacon and Cross beacon in line bearing S. E., in 4 fathoms, and about midway between the Outer Western buoy and the small red nun buoy off the spit of Reddie Head.

For the Inner anchorage vessels can take up any position between the buoys marking the channel.

TIDES.—It is high-water, full and change, at the Inner anchorage off Hookey Tollah at 1.15 hours 15 minutes; ordinary springs rise 7 feet and neaps 4 feet. The range of tide, however, is much affected by the fresh water out of the numerous creeks, and also by the prevailing winds; the best or highest tides occur during the N. E. monsoon, and the least or lowest tides in the month of May. The tidal stream within the harbour set fairly through the several channels, and at springs average a velocity of 2 knots an hour. After heavy rains, when the freshets come down the Bakood and Jumboo rivers, the ebb stream, which runs out round Reddie Head and past the red spire buoy, is very swift, sometimes attaining a rate of 4 or 5 knots an hour.

At half a mile out-ide and Eastward of Reddie Point the flood stream sets to North; at the Fairway buoy to N. W., whilst midway between the buoy and Reddie Point, it sets to W. S. W. Great attention, therefore, is necessary in entering the port on a flood tide, as explained in the directions which are given further on.

In the offing the flood sets to N. E., the ebb to S. W., at the rate of about one knot per hour; but the velocity is much influenced by the prevailing wind, so that the flood stream (augmented by the ocean current) in the S. W. monsoon attains sometimes a speed of 4 knots.

SUPPLIES, TRADE, &c.—Good water can be procured at the Canal Lock about one mile up the Jumboo river by using the vessels' boats. Firewood is plentiful and cheap.

Provisions are scarce and expensive; sheep, vegetables, &c., can be obtained from Katak, and from villages within a radius of 20 miles; but it is better to obtain all provisions and live-stock from Calcutta by means of the weekly British India steamers.

False Point is the most important harbour of Katak and the Orissa district; the exports are chiefly rice, horns, hides and oil-seeds, the value of which for the year 1884-85 amounted to Rs. 26,81,456.

The value of imports, the principal of which were cotton twist, piece-goods, metal opium, liquor, and gunnys, was for the same period Rs. 3,29,087.

Small comfortable steamers belonging to Messrs. Bulloch & Co. meet all the British India vessels, and convey passengers and cargo to Katak through the canal at very moderate rates.

DIRECTIONS—Vessels from the Southward, bound to False Point Outer anchorage in the S. W. monsoon, on approaching the Light-house, should not shoal into less than 10 fathoms. When the Light-house bears N. W., distant $4\frac{1}{2}$ miles, in soundings of 10 fathoms olive mud bottom, alter course to N. N. E., for about 7 miles, or until the tripod on Dowdeswell Island bears N. W. $\frac{1}{2}$ W. Thence a N. W. by N. course for about $3\frac{1}{2}$ miles will place a vessel in about 7 fathoms mud, one mile off shore, with Dowdeswell tripod bearing Southward of West. Haul in gradually until Temple-tree, the Jumboo location buildings, and flagstaff, on the West shore of the bay, are well open to the Northward of Dowdeswell Island and anchor as convenient.

If proceeding to the Inner anchorage, pass westward of the red spire buoy, off Reddie Point (taking care to guard against an eddy, extending from the pitch of the point to the 3-fathom line), and steer up the harbour, being guided by the buoys, to the required anchorage. It should be observed, that with a strong flood-stream (which will reveal itself by drifting a vessel rapidly to the Northward) it will be found best to steer in on a Southerly course, bringing the vessel's head through the S. E. quadrant to East and N. E., so as to breast the tide before anchoring. Instances have occurred of steamers steering in towards Reddie Point, and attempting to turn to starboard, or through S. W. and N. W. on the flood-tide; thus they were rapidly swept across (see tides) the channel to the Westward, and grounded in the shoal water extending from Temple Point.

From abreast Hookey Tollah, boat channels, winding through mud banks and partially buoyed, lead to the Bakod and Jumbob creeks. There is also a channel available for boats, through mud flats and mangrove, leading to False Point Light-house, the banks on either side being marked with stakes.

BOUNDARIES OF THE PORT.—On the North.—A line drawn from Temple-tree through, and beyond the Fairway buoy to meet the Eastern limit.

On the South.—A line drawn from Prince Arthur beacon on the South side of Dowdeswell Island to Black Point beacon (entrance to Jumboo river).

On the East.—A line drawn from Prince Arthur beacon (on the South side of Dowdeswell Island) through and beyond the tripod beacon on Dowdeswell Island to meet the North limit.

On the West.—The right bank of the Jumboo river as far Northward as the Canal Lock, and thence in a line to Temple-tree, including the river and creek banks, to within 50 yards above high-water mark.

The 9th March 1886.

No. 87.—Declaration.—Whereas it appears to the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal that land is required to be taken by Government at the public expenses for a public purpose, viz., for the Third Section of the Taldonda Canal, it is hereby declared that for the above purpose a piece of land 8 miles 3 furlongs and 80 feet long, and averaging in width 231 feet, measuring 250 acres and 31 poles, more or less, of standard measurement, commencing from mouzah Nekurikood, pergunnah Anabartak, and passing through mouzahs Nekurikood, killah Koojung, Mallahsahi, pergunnahs Tiran, Ramadeipur, killah Koojung, Ramchunderpur, Shaudnapur, Tentulia, Jagannathprosad, Gilanasi, Jeysingpur, Balabhadraprosad, Komahsahi, Chuckerdhorpur, Kapamoonah, Sitalpur, Autapur, Bhootmoondy, Kulbelari, and terminating in mouzah Nayabelari, killah Koojung, at the Paradip Nullah, in the district of Cuttack, is required within the aforesaid villages.

This declaration is made, under the provisions of section 6 of Act X of 1870, to all whom it may concern.

No. 96 Notification.—In the exercise of the powers conferred on him by sections 78, 79, 80, 81, and 99 of Act III (B.C.) of 1876, the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal is pleased to pass the following rules for carrying out the provisions of the said Act, with respect to the Sarun Canals, in supersession of those at present in force.

A draft of the rules was published in the Calcutta Gazette of the dates noted in the margin, as Notification No. 119, dated the 24th March and 29th April; and the 6th and 13th May 1885. 1885.

1. In Notification No. 179, dated 18th August 1879, under the provisions of Part II of Act III of 1876, Government has reserved to itself the rights of property in the water in the following canals and river beds forming part of the Sarun irrigation scheme:—

1. Roopun Chap Sota.
The head cut.
3. The Dahan river and the water channels in continuation of or in connection with it.
4. The Gandaki river and the water channels in continuation of or in connection with it.
5. The Dhanat river and the water channels in continuation of or in connection with it.
7. Gangri river and the water channels in continuation of or in connection with it.

These canals and rivers will hereinafter be referred to as the Sarun Canals.

2. No person shall take water from the Sarun Canals for irrigation or manufacturing purposes without the written permission of a duly authorised person.

Licences will be required—

- (a) For the construction of temporary dams in the canal beds.
- (b) For the irrigation of lands by flow or lift.
- (c) For the construction of village channels and distributaries leading from the canals for the irrigation of lands.
- (d) For water used for the purpose of any manufacture by any person other than a Canal Manager.
- (e) For the erection of fishing weirs or the use of fishing nets—(1) in the head cut; (2) in the new cuts from the Roopun Chap Sota to the Dahan, Gandaki, Dhanat, and Gangri river beds; (3) in any other new cuts which may be made hereafter.

3. Government reserves at present its right to levy tolls for irrigation, and to charge for filling tanks, watering cattle, or for water for other domestic purposes.

4. The revenue administration of the Sarun irrigation scheme is vested in the Collector, who is ex-officio head of the Canal Revenue Department. The Executive Engineer of the Gunduck Division as canal officer is charged with the maintenance and management of the canals, but all orders passed by him under the Act or these rules are appealable to the Collector, under whose general directions he will act. All orders relating to the canal revenue will usually be issued by the Collector (through the Executive Engineer or not, as the case may be), and all correspondence intended for the Collector in this department should be addressed to the Collector direct, or through the Executive Engineer, Mozuerpore, or the Assistant Engineer, Gopalgunge.

5. For administrative purposes, the Sarun district divided into the sub-districts enumerated in the following rule, and shown in a map deposited in the Collector's office. The boundaries of the sub-districts and their number may be hereafter modified.

6. The following guarantors are, till further orders, appointed Canal Managers, and will, within the undermentioned sub-districts, act as the agents of Government in managing the affairs of the canals.

Manager of the Arua concern for the time being.

Ditto	Bansapali	ditto.
Ditto	Bahrowli	ditto.
Ditto	Burhoga	ditto.
Ditto	Harpur	ditto.
Ditto	Hatwa estates	ditto.
Ditto	Jogapur concern	ditto.
Ditto	Nowada	ditto.
Ditto	Rajapatti	ditto.
Ditto	Ramkola	ditto.
Ditto	Sadowa	ditto.
Ditto	Sitalpur	ditto.

7. The more particular duties of a canal manager will be—

1st—To receive applications and grant permits, printed in the prescribed form for the use of water under sections 74, 75, and 77 of the Irrigation Act.

2nd—Subject to the instructions of the canal officers to distribute, under the provisions of section 76, the water-supply allotted to his sub-district.

3rd—To recover and credit to Government the water-rates.

4th—To superintend and maintain such establishment as may be found necessary for the assessment and collection of water-rates within his sub-district.

8. Canal Managers have no power under Parts III, IV, and V of the Act; and all claims to remission under section 76 of Part VI should be referred to the canal officer or his assistant for disposal. Complaints regarding unauthorised use of canal water under sections 79, 80, and 81 are also to be referred to the canal officer or Collector for decision. All proceedings connected with the recovery of water-rates by distraint or other compulsory process will be undertaken by the Collector.

9. Any Manager desiring the construction of a temporary dam across the Roopan Chap Sota, or across the bed of the Daha, Gaudaki, Dhanai, or Gangri rivers must prefer a written application to the canal officer, specifying the object of the work and the length of time for which it is required. It will be at the discretion of the canal officer to reject the application or to grant it on such conditions as he may think fit, one of the conditions being the power reserved to the canal officer of cutting the bund, if it should ever appear to him in the public interests necessary to do so.

Provided, however, that no such dam shall be constructed without due provision being made, by means of a proper escape channel, for the supply to the guarantor or guarantors, on the same river below such dam, of the share of water to which he or they may be entitled under the decision of the canal officer.

10. Any person other than a Manager who may desire to construct a temporary dam across the bed of any of the rivers mentioned in the last rule must prefer his application to the Canal Manager in charge of the sub-district in which the site of the proposed dam lies. The latter will then forward the application with his remarks to the canal officer for orders.

11. Any person, whether he be a Canal Manager or not, who constructs a dam across any of the river beds referred to in rule 9, without having first obtained the written permission of the canal officer, or who, after the construction of an authorized dam, does or omits the doing of any act to impede the free flow of water through the escape channel provided for such dam, will be liable to prosecution under section 93, Act III (B.C.) of 1876, Chapter XVII of the Indian Penal Code, or otherwise as may seem proper to the Collector.

12. With reference to rule 7, paragraph 2 above, it will be competent to the Canal Manager, subject to the control of the canal officer, and on his own responsibility,* to allow the construction of such temporary dams in any of the village channels (subsidiary to the main river beds mentioned in rule 9) within his sub-district, as he may consider necessary for the proper distribution of the water-supply allotted thereto.

13. If one or more of the riparian proprietors desire to have a permanent dam or regulator constructed in any channel or river bed, he or they shall present an application to that effect to the Collector, who will consult the Canal Manager and the canal officer as to the desirability of constructing such dam or regulator. Should its construction be deemed desirable, the Collector will cause plans and estimates to be prepared, and he shall also call upon the applicants to deposit the cost (including cost of establishment), or to give a guarantee securing its payment when required, and providing that, if the cost of the work should, through unforeseen causes, exceed the original estimate, the balance will be made good by the applicant. The agreement will also provide for the dam or regulator being kept in proper repair, as well as for its being taken over by Government at a fair valuation, should this ever be considered expedient. The construction of such dam or regulator will be carried out by the canal officer, who shall also have power to stop all supplies of water if it is not subsequently maintained in proper repair.

14. Each application for a permanent dam or regulator will be considered on its own merits, and will only be granted on such conditions as the Collector, in consultation with the Superintending Engineer, shall consider fit.

15. A register will be kept of the owners of each permanent dam or regulator, and any person may at any time apply to the canal officer to be made a joint owner. It shall be the duty of the canal officer to report fully on the matter to the Collector, giving his own opinion as to whether the application should be allowed or rejected, provided that before reporting in favour of allowing an applicant to become a joint owner, the canal officer shall issue a notice upon the registered owner or owners, and take into consideration any objections which they may prefer. The Collector, on receipt of the proceedings may, after holding a further enquiry, if he thinks it to be necessary, pass an order (a)—rejecting the application, or (b) directing that the applicant shall be registered as a joint owner on payment of a specified sum to the registered owner or owners.

16. Persons desiring to irrigate their fields with canal water by flow or lift must apply in person or by agent to the Canal Manager, whereupon the latter shall issue a permit in the prescribed form (Appendix B). The right to irrigate without extra charge extends up to the 31st of March following, the date on which the permit was issued; provided, however, that under the operation of this rule one and the same crop be not assessed more than once. The rate charged shall not exceed Re. 1 per acre (or 12 annas per high), irrespective of the crops grown, except in special cases to be determined by Government.

17. Any person, other than a Canal Manager, desirous of taking water for the manufacture of indigo must apply for a permit to the Canal Manager, stating the estimated outturn, and undertaking that he will, on the 1st of October, declare the quantity he has manufactured. The charge will be at the rate of Rs. 2 per maund of indigo manufactured.

18. No person may allow water to run to waste, and no person, other than a Canal Manager, may use water for irrigation or for any other purpose without having first obtained a permit as required by the preceding two rules. Any person infringing this rule will, with the consent in writing of the Collector (but not otherwise), be charged double the ordinary rates for the water used without authority or wasted, and will, in addition, be liable, on prosecution by the Collector or canal officer, to the penalty provided by section 93 of Act III (B.C.) of 1876, or by any other law under which his offence may come. The charge in such cases will, as a rule, be laid by the Canal Manager by the submission to the canal officer or Collector of an "Unauthorized Irrigation Certificate." See (Appendix C.)

19. The privileges of guarantors are as follows:—

(1) A prior claim to a supply of water for irrigation and manufacture during the continuance of their guarantee.

(2) The right to use water for manufacturing purposes free of charge.

20. Any person may apply to the Collector to become a guarantor. If the Collector accept the application, which, at his discretion, he may or may not do, he shall proceed, in communication with the canal officer, to determine whether the new guarantee shall be utilized towards extending the canals, providing distributaries or embankments, or towards reducing the responsibility of any of the original guarantors. If the original guarantor (within whose sub-district the applicant's property or interest is situated) claims a reduction in his guarantee, and can at the same time show that the application of the new guarantor towards an extension of the canal would operate to reduce his collections below the amount of his guarantee, his claims to have his guarantee reduced shall be considered: otherwise the new guarantee may be applied towards extending the canals, and an area corresponding to the applicant's property or interests be marked off to him, within which he shall exercise the rights and privileges now exercised in their sub-districts by the guarantors mentioned in paragraph 6 of these rules.

If the applicant's interest or property be not situated within any sub-district, as specified in paragraph 6, then the Collector shall apply the guarantee towards extending the benefits of the canal system.

21. The irrigation year will commence on the 1st April; and as soon as possible after the irrigation of any land has been completed or the manufacture of indigo (by a person other than the Canal Manager) has been concluded, the Canal Manager shall present the persons who used the water with bills for water-rate (in a form approved by Government), based upon the actual area irrigated or the outturn of indigo manufactured. If these bills are not paid—(a) in the case of indigo manufacture within one month after presentation, (b) in the case of rubbi crops by the 1st March, (c) in the case of other crops within one month after the crop irrigated has been cut, the Canal Manager shall, without delay, submit a list of such unpaid bills to the Collector, who will put in force the powers vested in him for the recovery of the amount due in accordance with sections 83, 84, and 85 of the Indian Irrigation Act. Such list must be supported by the counterfoils of the bills prepared by the Manager, as well as by his personal certificate, that he has satisfied himself of the justness of the claims; and in the case of unauthorized irrigation, by the "Unauthorized Irrigation Certificates" (Appendix C) required by rule 13.

22. The sums thus recovered by the Collector will be placed in his (the Collector's) accounts to the credit of the Canal Manager as a set-off against the amount due from him under his guarantee for the year during which such recoveries are made. The Canal Manager will be entitled to a commission of 20 per cent. on all recoveries (over and above the amount of his guarantee), made either by himself or by the Collector on lists submitted on or before the 31st March. Sums due on this account will not be shown by the Manager in his accounts, but will be paid to him by cheque after the adjustment by the Collector of the year's accounts. No percentage allowance will be granted to the Manager in respect of recoveries made by the Collector on lists submitted later than the 31st March, although the amount of such recoveries will, as stated above, be credited to him as an asset against the amount of his guarantee.

23. For water used by a Manager for the irrigation of his own lands, he will be charged at the ordinary rate of Re. 1 per acre (or 12 annas per bigha), and for sums due on this account he will not be entitled to any commission allowance.

24. It will be the duty of Canal Managers—

- 1st—To see that all permits for the use of water be issued in the prescribed form, and a copy be kept in counterfoil in books supplied for the purpose.
- 2nd—That copies of bills presented for payment be kept in the counterfoils supplied, for record.
- 3rd—That a cash-book of all receipts of water-rates be kept in form supplied for the purpose.
- 4th—That for all cash received receipts be granted in the form supplied by the canal officer, which will be kept in counterfoil.
- 5th—That all cash received be paid monthly into the sub-divisional or district treasury, and that the treasury receipts be filed with the cash-book as vouchers.
- 6th—To submit such returns as may be required from time to time by the Collector.
- 7th—To afford every facility to the canal officer and Collector in their periodical inspection of the Canal Managers' office and accounts.

25. The amount yearly guaranteed by each Manager is payable in two equal instalments, viz. on the 30th of June and the 31st December of each year, and any arrear due on either of these dates will be deemed to be a demand under Act VII (B.C.) of 1880, and shall be recoverable by the processes prescribed by the above Act.

26. A yearly adjustment up to the 31st March will be made of each Manager's account as soon as possible after the close of the official year (31st March). For this purpose each Manager will, by the 15th April, submit to the Collector in duplicate a statement in form Appendix D, with the entries of the first ten columns duly filled in. The Collector will supply the figures for the remaining columns, and return one copy to the Manager with a cheque for the sum payable on account of commission as shown in column 14, should no arrears from him be due. The Collector will also require the immediate deposit by the Manager of any arrears which may be shown to be due. Such arrears, if not paid within one month after due notice to the Manager, will be recoverable under the Certificate Procedure Act (VII B.C. of 1880).

HIGH COURT NOTICES.

THE following Minute, recorded by Mr. Justice Prinsep, after inspecting certain Civil Courts in the interior, is published for general information.

HIGH COURT ;
APPELLATE SIDE, FORT WILLIAM,
The 8th March 1886.

By order of the High Court,
O. A. WILKINS,
Registrar.

In his Despatch transmitting the Letters Patent constituting this High Court, the Secretary of State for India wrote :

" Clause 30 is a very important provision . . . Circumstances may frequently arise when the deputation of a Judge or Judges of the High Court would be a measure of the highest expediency. For such cases the clause under consideration will enable the Government to provide by deputing one or more Judges from the High Court who would avail themselves of the opportunity thus afforded them of making searching enquiry into the manner in which the Local Courts were performing their duties." (Sir C Wood's Despatch No. 24 of 14th May 1862.)

The Judges of the High Court in 1865 accordingly determined that an inspection of the Lower Courts should be made, and Sir B. Peacock, the Chief Justice, selected Mr. Justice Loch and Mr. Justice Elphinstone Jackson for this duty. It would have been impossible to have attempted an inspection of all the Civil Courts in Bengal. The task would have been most laborious and prolonged, and it would have resulted in no benefit at all proportionate to the time expended. It was, therefore, settled that the object in view would best be attained by inspecting the Civil Courts of all grades at the head-quarters of each district with occasional visits to other Courts conveniently situated on the line of country traversed. Mr. Justice Loch and Mr. Justice Elphinstone Jackson proceeded in different directions, and visited nearly every district in this Presidency, being engaged on this work for several months. To ensure a regular inspection of the Subordinate Civil Courts, the High Court has invariably required District Judges at short intervals to inspect the Civil Courts subordinate to them and to report the result of such inspections.

Since then no attempt has been made at any inspection of the Civil Courts by a Judge of the High Court, except in 1875, when the Courts at the head-quarters of four of the eastern districts were inspected by Mr. Justice Louis Jackson. Personally I have always strongly advocated such periodical inspection, and I think that a perusal of the reports of previous inspections will show the necessity for this duty being regularly undertaken at intervals. This opinion has, however, not been generally held by the High Court of recent years. Some months ago the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal strongly represented the necessity for an inspection in consequence of what he himself had recently seen during one of his tours. It was accordingly settled that the work should be undertaken, and I was requested to perform the duty, the time allotted being somewhat limited owing to the state of the judicial work of the High Court.

It was not to be expected that any one Judge should be able in a few weeks to make a complete and thorough inspection of all the Civil Courts at the head-quarters of every district in Bengal. The work is very laborious and troublesome, and although the means of communication have greatly improved since 1865, there are still many difficulties in the way of rapid and convenient travelling which I need not here describe. It is also for many reasons very undesirable that such an inspection should be conducted by only one Judge. The experience so required cannot be communicated on paper; it is obvious that greater benefit to the High Court will be derived, if such experience be more diffused among the Judges; the inspecting Judges by communication amongst themselves will frequently be led to direct their attention to matters which must occasionally escape the notice of one of them; the recommendations made as the result of an inspection must carry more weight if coming from several Judges; and the duty will be more easily performed if delegated to more than one Judge. I hope, therefore, that, on the next occasion for inspecting the Courts, the work will be divided amongst two or more Judges, and that full time will be given for a thorough and complete inspection.

I have been able to visit only a few of the districts of this Presidency, and in my desire to make my inspection as much general as possible during the time allotted to me, I have endeavoured to select districts from various quarters representing the characteristics of the different litigation in our Courts, and by this means in some measure to ascertain how work is done in the Subordinate Courts in Behar, Orissa, in Suburban Districts, in Eastern Bengal, and in Chittagong. I am conscious that my work has been done somewhat hurriedly and not as thoroughly as I desired, but I had to choose between inspecting only a very few districts completely, and thus acquiring a very limited experience of a small number of Courts, and endeavouring to extend my enquiries so as to make a more general report, which may serve to show how necessary a thorough and complete inspection is. I hope that I may thus succeed in ensuring the performance of this task at an early date, and that such an inspection will extend to the entire Presidency, including the Courts that I have recently visited, so as to complete what I have been obliged to leave undone.

Most of the districts visited by me were selected by the Government of Bengal, but in order to make my inspection more general I added to this list. I visited the following districts in the order stated—

Cuttack.
Nuddea
Chittagong.
Shahabad.

Mozufferpore.
Beerbhoom.
Burrisaul.
Jessore (including Khoolna).

En route I also visited Patna, Hajepore, Perozepore, and Bagirhat; but the short time that I was able to stop at these places prevents my regarding those visits as more than casual inspections. In the two places lastmentioned, I also sat with the Munsifs, but not sufficiently long to enable me to form a very definite idea of their proceedings. Practically I was unable to do more than inspect the Courts at the head-quarters of the districts first-mentioned.

On an average I allowed myself one day to each Civil Court, sitting in turn with each Judicial officer and inspecting all the offices. In this latter duty I was much assisted by Baboo Krishto Prosono Bose, Serishtadar of the Judge's Court at Hooghly, a very able and experienced officer, whose services have been invaluable to me, and whose recent death is much to be lamented. After hearing each Judge try a case, or a portion of a case, it was my practice to examine the order-sheet showing the proceedings previously taken in it. Any irregularities in those proceedings were then pointed out. I next examined the diary so as to learn the general course of business in the Court, and for that purpose I used to send for the records of several cases heard on previous days. The outline of my tour was never settled more than a day or so in advance. If the Courts had been so inclined, they could have no opportunity of anticipating my visits, so as to arrange their work beforehand; but even if any such preparation had been made, such as was found and described by Mr. Justice Loch in 1866, it would have had little or no effect on an inspection as conducted by me. As I proceeded from district to district, I recorded notes which have been communicated to the Judges of the High Court, as well as to the officers concerned. I propose now to summarise the general result and to make such suggestions as seem to me to be likely to lead to an improvement in the administration of justice.

As regards the manner in which business is conducted and trials held in the Mofussil Courts of first instance, I have found much to commend, but I have also found everywhere a very irregular and objectionable practice before any contested case comes to trial which I will presently describe.

In Bengal, where the evidence is given and recorded in Bengali, the judicial officers, with one exception, recorded the evidence with their own hands. The depositions were afterwards read over to the witnesses generally by these officers. I observed, however, that occasionally, to save time, the depositions were read by a mohurir while the trial proceeded. This is not altogether regular, as the law (section 183) requires that the evidence of each witness when completed shall be read over in the presence of the Judge and of the witness, and also in the presence of the parties or their pleaders.

In Behar the evidence is recorded in the Kathhee character which none of the judicial officers can write. Consequently, the services of a mohurir are called in, and the work is not conducted with the same expedition as in Bengal. Notes of the evidence are recorded by the judicial officers, generally in English.

The provisions of the Code regarding the admission of documentary evidence are observed, and I had no reason to find fault with the conduct of trials which took place before me. Less attention is paid to the execution of decrees, because the amount of judicial work that every officer is called upon to perform leaves him little or no time for anything else. Matters connected with the execution of decrees are therefore too often left to the office establishment, and as this establishment is too weak and is underpaid, the assistance of unpaid and irresponsible apprentices is called in. That this system has worked so well is marvellous. No one, however, who has had any practical experience of it cannot but deprecate the causes which have necessitated a recourse to it, and therefore I trust that steps will soon be taken to remove the possibility of such abuses. I shall again refer to this subject when noticing the office establishments of the Subordinate Civil Courts.

With the proceedings during the trial of a case no very serious fault can be found, although improvement in many respects must be effected before a comparison can be challenged with Courts having superior advantages. The work is intelligently, carefully, and regularly done; further elaboration in details must follow in course of time; and as all the Courts are notoriously overworked, I was not inclined to attach very great importance to what I regarded as comparatively small matters of detail. Such criticisms seemed to me to be more likely to discourage officers whose zeal and devotion to the service cannot be too highly commended, than, in the present state of the work, to bring about any very necessary improvement.

But although, after the commencement of a trial, the proceedings are open to little objection, the system, which is everywhere in force before a contested case actually comes on for trial, cannot be too strongly condemned.

A case is rarely tried on the day originally fixed, unless it be a short case or one tried ex parte. On the day fixed for its disposal, after settlement of issues, it is nearly always found that it cannot be heard because the judicial officer is engaged either on his board of short causes or is obliged to try some older case which has already been subject to the process of postponement that I am about to describe. The case is called up late in the day. If the witnesses are in attendance,—and this is rare,—they are discharged without examination, and another day is fixed, probably one month later, because arrangements have already been made for the work of the particular Court for that period, and it is not possible, without great inconvenience, to disturb those arrangements. But it not unfrequently happens that the board has been settled for a much longer period than one month, and, with the desire at least to have the appearance of endeavouring to try the case on an early date, and so to escape all risk of censure, the case is stuffed into an already over-crowded board, so that, if it is tried on that date, it displaces cases which have some claim to precedence from standing before it on the list of business, although they may not be of such old institution. Confusion consequently ensues, and it becomes almost impossible to restore a regular course of business; indeed, it is obvious that unless the work is well under control, or is not sufficient to occupy the entire time of the particular Judge, or an additional officer is sent to his assistance, order will not be restored. Unfortunately our Courts of first instance, except in rare instances, have more work than they can properly perform. Where they can get through their work, it is in many respects, especially in matters of execution, done hurriedly and in a very perfunctory manner. The system, therefore, which I have described has degenerated into something more irregular, advantage has been taken of the tenderness of the Code in providing parties with the means of enforcing the attendance of unwilling witnesses, and the parties obtain a series of postponements, until the Court is really prepared to commence the trial, without the expense and inconvenience of having their witnesses in attendance on each day fixed for trial by having recourse to sham processes. It becomes recognised that the case will not be tried on the day fixed, so neither party has his evidence ready. But unless some excuse for asking for a postponement is forthcoming, the case may be called on and dismissed on default. The defendant, too, has to be prepared for the possible contingency of the case being heard on the evidence of the plaintiff, when he may suffer if he cannot furnish some excuse for the absence of his own witnesses. The pleaders of both sides generally settle such matters amongst themselves, although occasionally it may be necessary, as I have endeavoured to show, for each side to be prepared to act independently to provide against the risk of an adverse summary order.

The law provides a possible means of escape, and the laxness with which that law has been administered affords additional facilities. A representation is made by one of the parties that some witness has failed to attend on service of summons, and a postponement is asked for in order that he may be arrested. No enquiry is made whether the other evidence is forthcoming, or, if not forthcoming, why there has been this neglect. Rarely does it happen that both parties ask for a coercive process, and from this it may fairly be inferred that the pleaders for both parties have settled amongst themselves what course should be taken; I cannot recollect ever to have found that an objection was made to a postponement thus applied for. Again, a warrant for the arrest of a witness is hardly ever executed, from which it would seem that no attempt is made to arrest him. The case comes on again in due course with the same result, only the application made is varied. A proclamation is asked for and issued requiring the attendance of the witness on a specified day to which the trial is adjourned. Again is the case called on for hearing, and it not unfrequently happens that another application for postponement on the same ground is made, and the Court is asked to attach the property of the witness. A general order of attachment goes out, and the case is again postponed. Even then I have found further adjournments apparently for the same cause. In one district I found that a new kind of proclamation had been invented—a kind of desperate notice that the Court was this time in earnest, and that whatever happened the case would be tried. Sometimes also, after all these coercive processes had been exhausted, I have found an order passed that ten days' time is allowed to the parties to produce their evidence. In one case I found that on the day fixed for trial no evidence was forthcoming on either side, but the plaintiff's pleader obtained a warrant for the arrest of one of his witnesses, although some others amongst them had also been served, and were absent, and at each stage of the case the same witness was pursued by the entire series of processes until eventually the case was tried, no notice being taken of the contumacy of this witness who was eventually examined and discharged. Then the trial begins, the witnesses on whom repeated processes have failed to make any impression attend of their own accord, the evidence is recorded, and judgment delivered; but no notice is ever taken of the contempt of Court committed. The witnesses are discharged without being even asked to explain the cause of their previous absence.

There is unfortunately nothing new in the practice that I have described. It was condemned by Mr. Justice Lush and Mr. Justice Elphinstone Jackson in 1865, and it has been repeatedly denounced ever since whenever it has come under the notice of the High Court. But although I have found this system in full force everywhere, I am glad to be able to add that I have not found in any case that, when the trial has once commenced, its course has been interrupted by the discharge of witnesses in attendance and an order for their return for examination after an interval. The provisions of section 156 of the Code in this respect are, I believe, carefully observed.

The system has taken such firm root that it has become extremely difficult to eradicate it. Subordinate Judges who hear the majority of appeals have been brought up in it, and are therefore inclined to regard any strictness of procedure on the part of a Munsif in trying cases on the days fixed and in dealing with them summarily on default of evidence as an unnecessary innovation resulting in hardship to the parties.

and a probable failure of justice. A Munsif may announce his determination to try cases out on the days fixed for trial on whatever evidence may be forthcoming, but the pleaders and parties will not readily accept this order, and the result will be that cases will be decided on deficient evidence, or decreed ex parte, or dismissed on default. The Munsif will become extremely unpopular. He will earn the unenviable reputation of being summary and unjust. Complaints will be made everywhere—in the Native Press, anonymously to all his superiors in turn, until they reach the High Court and even the Government. His labours to restore order will not be recognised, for his orders will, on appeal, be set aside by the Subordinate Judge, the cases being returned for re-trial; he will become disheartened; and he will probably suffer in promotion for the unfavourable reputation he has earned, without proper enquiry into its cause.

Any reform must, in my opinion, commence at the top. As Courts of first instance, Subordinate Judges have less excuse for postponing a case than Munsifs. The cases coming before them are fewer in number, and therefore their work should be more under control. It should be impressed upon them that original suits, in which the persons concerned are more numerous, should always be heard before appeals, and that if the postponement of any case is necessary, an appeal should always make way for an original suit. In their desire to show good returns of work in mere figures, it has become the habit of Subordinate Judges to postpone original suits, especially a long and tedious one, at the end of a quarter, in order to decide a number of appeals, and so present a good array of figures in their returns of work. This must be watched and stringently repressed. The Courts of Appeal through an examination of the order sheet, have the means of learning the course of a trial ready at hand and can therefore easily take notice of any unnecessary postponements on frivolous grounds. If therefore the absolute necessity for a change of practice and regularity be enforced on the superior Courts of first instance, the Subordinate Judges, these officers will in turn realise the necessity of insisting on the same system in the Courts of the Munsifs. But here we are met with a very great difficulty. The Subordinate Judges generally can keep their files of original suits under control, for as Courts of first instance they are not overworked. It is only when in addition to such work they are required to try appeals that more work is thrown upon them than they can properly perform. Original suits, too, are instituted in the Courts of the Subordinate Judges without any remarkable increase at any particular period of the year. In both these respects the work in a Munsif's Court differs most materially. It is the exception, and a rare exception, to find that any Munsif can keep his work thoroughly under control. As a rule, every Munsif is called upon to do much more than he can properly undertake. They all feel that the work must be done, or their individual reputations will suffer. Incessant and most laborious application to his work may enable a Munsif to exhibit a clear file, but it rarely ensures at the same time a satisfactory result as regards the quality of his work. In April—that is, about the end of the Bengali year—there is always a rush of suits, principally rent-suits. Instead of coming in by tens they are instituted by hundreds, so as to obstruct and disarrange the work of the Courts. Many of these cases never come to trial, but are settled out of Court. Obviously no information can be obtained of this probable result in any case, so they have all to be set down for trial in the usual manner. The Munsifs, however, put on the daily board a larger number than usual, trusting to the probability of many being decided on default, or on compromise, or decreed ex parte; but it constantly happens that some of the cases on any particular day are contested, and consequently postponements commence, and this with an overcrowded file means confusion. Additional officers must be appointed to meet this pressure and to ensure the regularity of the work in our Courts. I have in a separate memorandum shown the absolute necessity for adding to the number of our existing Courts by showing the gradual and enormous increase of work coming before those Courts, the heavy arrear accumulating on their files, and that the increase in the number of the Courts is not at all proportionate to the increase of work. If the number of cases that the majority of our Judges decide be taken into consideration, it will be seen that good work cannot reasonably be expected from them, and we too often find that the struggle to perform an almost impossible task had led to the most serious consequences to the health of our Judges. To ensure a better administration of justice more Judges must be appointed, and greater facilities must be given for the appointment of any additional officer to meet a sudden emergency. The fluctuations of work in the Munsifs' Courts no doubt present a great difficulty in enforcing any regular system, still more attention should be paid to the fixing of cases for particular days. A little experience and care in ascertaining the nature of a case when instituted, either from the plaint itself or from enquiry from the pleaders engaged, will enable a Munsif to avoid overcrowding his board. In the course of my inspection I found certainly one instance of such a careful practice which led to most excellent results. I have little doubt that, if not discouraged by the Courts of Appeal, Munsifs will enforce trials on the days fixed and refuse postponements on frivolous grounds, and that pleaders and parties will learn that they must be prepared with their evidence when their case is called on. There should also be a rule that a case once postponed for want of leisure shall never again be postponed, but that, except for very special reasons to be recorded, it will be heard on the second day fixed, care being taken that that day is tolerably clear from other work and not already occupied with numerous cases fixed for it. By such means I think that some improvement will be effected. The only substantial remedy is to appoint more Judges and to provide them with better accommodation and office establishments, stronger in numbers, and properly paid.

I have next found that, in consequence of their being overburdened with judicial work, the subordinate Judicial officers are unable to attend properly to matters connected with the execution of decrees or to any miscellaneous work. This work is, therefore, either with Amla, who are underpaid, or with apprentices, who are supposed to live on their prospects of future employment, and are engaged simply because the ordinary office establishments are altogether inadequate to discharge the duties expected from them. Our Judicial officers have justly earned the highest reputation for devotion to the service and integrity, but under the system under which they are obliged to work, the Civil Courts cannot be supposed to be above suspicion of corruption, and so long as sufficient and properly-paid establishments are not allowed, it is hopeless to expect that this stigma will be removed. I can imagine no fitter nursery for every malpractice than a service of some years as an unpaid apprentice, followed by appointment on the regular establishment on an inadequate salary. It has long been admitted by Government that the highest of the ministerial officers, Serishtadars, especially in District Courts, are underpaid; the Court-fees realised in the Civil Courts have, year after year, realised a large surplus income to Government after meeting all expenses connected with those Courts; the fees realised by affidavits in Mofussil Courts which have been earned by the additional work thrown on Serishtadars have in recent years yielded a very considerable sum, and yet the repeated and urgent representations of the High Court for an increase of pay to these officers have time after time met with no response from Government, except an admission of the necessity and the justice of the claim made on behalf of these officers, coupled with an almost indefinite postponement of any concession to them. Recently we have received a letter from Government deferring a consideration of the matter until the conclusion of an enquiry likely to last more than one year into the establishments of executive officers by a specially appointed Commission. It is not easy to understand why there should be any postponement of recognised claims with money forthcoming to satisfy them, or why any preference should be shown to the establishments of executive officers.

The next matter to which I would draw attention is the insufficient and inappropriate accommodation generally given to Civil Courts. It cannot but be admitted that of late years there has been some improvement effected, but the first thing that must strike the most casual visitor at any civil station, either the head-quarters of a district or at a sub-division of a district, is the great inferiority of the accommodation given to Civil Judges as compared with every other department of Government. My observations are defective in so much as they are founded on visits to only some of the districts of Bengal, but still the places visited were selected at random, and there is no reason to believe that I was particularly unfortunate in the places inspected. The Munsifs' Courts are nearly always in most unsuitable structures. In many places the Munsifs sit in howels unfit for human habitation—dark, badly ventilated, and filthy. At some places mat bungalows have been erected on a standard pattern. No doubt these are an improvement on the places in which the Courts used to be held, but still these cannot be regarded as suitable court-houses. The accommodation is generally insufficient, and the retention of valuable papers in a thatched mat-house is attended with the greatest risk. Let any one contrast even these improved court-houses with the Court of a Sub-divisional Magistrate or even the local post-office or telegraph station, and the inferiority is most striking; but how much more so in the case of the huts or sheds in which many Munsifs' Courts are still located. The worst instances were found by me at Arrah, Hajepore, Burrisaul, and Jessore. At Arrah there has been correspondence going on for some four years regarding the erection of the Civil Courts, which in course of time has developed the preparation of plans and estimates as well as the selection of a suitable site. Matters advanced up to the collection of material on that site, but because some other department required this material the bricks have been carted off elsewhere, and everything remains still on paper promises, the fulfilment of which depends on the existence of surplus funds, although these were available to use material specially collected for this purpose.

In Hajepore, the Munsif's Court was held in a dirty, dark *kutch*a bungalow, a remarkable contrast to the Sub-divisional Magistrates' Courts, and the official residence, both of which have been recently added to and improved at some expense,—the Munsif's Court, although much worse than the then existing Criminal Courts, being, at the same time, neglected.

In Burrisaul I found four Munsifs huddled together in a dirty dilapidated house, one of these Munsifs sitting in an exposed side verandah indifferently protected by a slanting mat from sun and rain. The unsuitableness of this accommodation was noticed by the Lieutenant-Governor about two years ago, and orders were issued for the preparation of proper Courts, but these matters remain.

At Jessore a magnificent range of offices with all the newest improvements had just been finished for the Revenue and Magisterial officers, and thus had placed some rooms in the old court-house at the disposal of the District Judge: but I still found one of the Munsifs holding his Court in a hut affording a striking contrast to the spacious accommodation and æsthetic brick buildings of even the neighbouring Post Office and Registration Office.

The Patna offices are also exceedingly bad and unsuitable.

But at sub-divisions the contrast between the accommodation given to Judicial and Executive officials is especially remarkable in their private arrangements. I have already referred to Hajepore, but the same inequality can be seen everywhere. The contrast is not only in the court-houses, but in arrangements made for private accommodation. The Deputy Magistrate lives in comfort in a building belonging to Government; the Munsif must be content with the best lodging that he can procure; and when his Court is often placed in a small village, the only lodging procurable is so unsuitable that he is forced to send his wife and family to his own home. Is it surprising that, with such disadvantages the Executive should be regarded as the favoured service and that Judicial officers should feel that their interests and comforts are neglected? In education, in intelligence, in devotion to the public service, in public estimation, I venture to state that the officers of the Subordinate Judicial Service are not surpassed by those of any other department under Government. As a separate department Civil Justice yields a large income to Government. Why, then, should the claims of this branch of the public service always be deferred to those of other departments? It is notorious that a Collector, a District Magistrate, or even a District Superintendent of Police finds little difficulty in obtaining funds for any improvement to his offices or even to that of a subordinate. I have myself seen the most elaborate iron racks in the office of a District Officer at a cost of about Rs. 27,900. But the obstacles placed in the way of District Judges in course of time deter their asking for the most trifling extra expenditure, and even admitted claims are so constantly postponed that they are apt to be lost sight of. I do not pretend to have penetrated the system of the distribution of public funds among the different departments, but I am inclined to think from the indifferent state of the court-houses and the difficulty experienced in obtaining an increase of the salaries of Serishtadars and from similar matters that the interests of this important department are not properly advocated in the first instance, and are not properly maintained when, for some reason or other, a retrenchment is necessary in one of several departments. I am conscious of my inability to ascertain the real cause of this persistent parsimony in the department of Civil Justice, but whatever be its cause, I trust that in the future its claims may be more recognised and more jealously watched until they are actually satisfied.

I now propose to consider points of procedure on which I would suggest some alterations so as to facilitate the work of our Courts.

There is a very great loss of time in recording evidence in the vernacular and reading it over to a witness at the close of his examination. This is most noticeable in Behar, where the Court language is Kaithoe. It will, I think, be admitted that, as a rule, evidence is most carefully recorded in the Civil Courts. Where the Judge is able to do so he himself record the evidence in his own handwriting, and where he cannot do so he records a full memo. nearly always in English, as the Amla records the deposition itself in the vernacular. The reading in Kaithoe is very tedious, for it is notorious that a man finds difficulty in reading his own handwriting in that character. Now in criminal cases, for many years past, the records have been written in English by all European officers and by Native Magistrates specially empowered to do so. I can see no valid reason why this system should not be introduced into our Civil Courts. Where a Judge is able to write the deposition himself as made to him, this might continue, but where he cannot do so, I would suggest that he be empowered to write it in English. In the Bengal districts the law which requires evidence to be recorded in the Court language has the effect of making it impossible for the District Judge, and for him alone, to record the evidence of a witness himself, although he is the Chief Judge of the district. I have never been able to understand this restriction, specially as it has the effect of deterring a District Judge from trying original suits, for he finds—and I speak from personal experience—that his time can be better occupied on other work than in supervising the work of an unintelligent deposition-writer, so as to make the record correspond with his own memo of the evidence.

Section 141 of the Code seems unnecessarily to impose too much work on Judicial officers. It requires that before a document shall be filed as part of the record of a suit under trial, it shall have been endorsed by the Judge with his own hand, with a statement that it was proved or admitted by the person against whom it is used. This is particularly onerous in rent-suits where a mass of rent receipts may have been tendered in evidence—indeed, from the size and description of the paper used for such documents, no such endorsement is possible. The Judges, however, as a rule, themselves number these papers, besides signing and dating them—a proceeding which interrupts the trial and occupies some time when this duty can be performed equally well by some ministerial officer. The use of some stamp would accelerate the despatch of business. Section 82 requires that evidence recorded even by the Judge himself shall be read over to the witness “in the presence of the Judge and of the witness, and also in the presence of the parties or their pleaders.” It seems to me that it is sufficient that this should be read over to the witness himself by a ministerial officer. The procedure prescribed tends very considerably to prolong the course of a trial, and the corrections made are exceedingly rare, probably not more than once in the trial of very many cases. The procedure suggested by me is adopted on the Original Side of the High Court and affords a sufficient safeguard against any mistake.

The system of giving copies works excellently under intelligent and careful supervision where the Serishtadar feels the importance of this department of the office and himself superintends it. Where he neglects this duty, confusion reigns; delays in furnishing copies are so great that parties do not find it worthwhile to enquire about them, and abuses of every kind naturally prevail. The rules introduced are good so far as they go, but they are not sufficiently precise so as to prescribe the duty of every one concerned in this work. Until this is done, every opportunity will be taken to evade the object of these rules and to place difficulties in the punctual despatch of business. (Since writing this I have learnt that such rules are under preparation.)

Complaints were made to me everywhere regarding the charge for copies. The matter has been under consideration by the High Court more than once. I am inclined to think that the average number of words in each line might be increased, and the comparing charges, which are as high as the copying charges, might be considerably reduced, having regard to the amount of smaller labour involved in comparing. I think also that the searching fees might be reduced. Where a full description of the record is given so as to enable the Record Officer easily to produce it, the fee should not be on the same scale as where a very insufficient or incorrect description is given. There is certainly no tendency either on the part of the Courts or their subordinate establishments to relax the rule regarding the levy of fees. The inclination is decidedly against affording any facilities to suitors. This was brought to my notice constantly in the matter of process-fees.

The process-fees fixed by Rules passed under the Court-Fees Act seem in many respects to be unnecessarily high. These fees were, like the copying-fees, fixed tentatively. The intention was to fix them at the lowest rates possible, consistent with providing for the expense caused, and in order to attain this it was necessary to give a margin to ensure against any loss to Government. No reliable data were available to guide those who fixed the rates. The result has been a very considerable profit to Government after providing for all charges. The fees for attachments of property are too heavy when applied to attachment of several properties. A separate fee should not be levied invariably for each property attached. In one case it was pointed out to me there were 150 properties to be attached; none of these were at any distance from the others, but yet 150 fees—that is, Rs. 150—were required before attachment was issued; and fees similarly calculated, but double, as the rate is Rs. 2, were levied for issue of proclamations of sale. These fees were more than sufficient to pay for the establishment employed by twenty or thirty fold. Some provisions should be made for the payment of fees at a lower rate if more than four or five properties are to be attached or sold situate within a reasonable and specified distance from one another. The rates for the services of an officer to be left in possession of the attached property are also too high—6 annas per diem is at the rate of more than Rs. 11 per month, but only some of the persons receive monthly salaries so high as Rs. 10, and as a considerable time must necessarily expire between the dates of attachment and sale, the expense incurred on this account must be immoderate, especially in the case of crops.

I can understand why the fee for attachment of the person or arrest, as it is termed, in execution of decree has been fixed at a high rate, but the rate, Rs. 10, is prohibitory, which cannot have been intended. I would lower this fee by one-half.

To require a fee for an order for sale of attached property and again another fee for service of proclamation of sale seems unnecessarily severe.

The rule regarding the payment of poundage on the gross amount realised by an execution sale and then to charge it as costs as against the judgment-debtor is, in my opinion, open to objection. I can understand that a percentage should be levied on the amount realised towards satisfaction of a decree, but it is difficult to understand on what principle a debtor should be obliged to pay a percentage on anything over and above that sum. Commission is charged by an auctioneer at voluntary sales on the sum realised; but why should the difficulties of a debtor be enhanced by such a commission being charged on a forced sale? It is notorious that a lower price is realised at such sales, but yet the proprietor has to suffer additional loss by paying commission on the full sum realised though it may exceed the amount of the debt.

In connection with this matter of poundage on sales, I would refer to the practice in allowing a decree-holder to bid at an execution-sale. The law enables a person to purchase property put up for sale in execution of his decree only with the permission of the Court previously obtained. This I have found to be very rarely refused,—in fact it is never refused except when there is more than one decree to be satisfied. The reasons for withholding permission to bid in such cases is the difficulty of requiring the decree-holder to make payment in cash instead of setting off the amount of the decree in satisfaction of the price bid. Sometimes permission is granted conditional on cash payment being made so that a rateable distribution may be made amongst all the decree-holders. The law (section 294 of the Code) has apparently overlooked this contingency, as it leaves it optional with decree-holder purchasing the permission of the Court to set off the amount of his decree against the purchase money. If the permission to purchase has been granted unconditionally, and the purchasing decree-holder should elect to set off the purchase-money against his decree, other decree-holders entitled to a rateable distribution are unable to obtain any satisfaction of their demands. It may well be considered whether, if a decree-holder applies for permission to purchase and becomes the purchaser, the charge on account of poundage should not fall only upon him, and whether the judgment-debtor should not be relieved from it in that contingency.

The rate fixed for notices and proclamations in suits for debt or damage to personal property, or for rent involving a lesser sum than Rs. 50, I observe is higher than the rate fixed for a summons on a defendant, whereas in other suits the rates are equal. The effect of this is to add materially to the costs of execution in such petty cases, whereas I apprehend the contrary object is desired.

I have endeavoured to show in what respects the fees are too heavy in execution proceedings, but these have been unfortunately increased, and without any corresponding benefit, by rules framed by the High Court under section 287 of the Code. The object of these rules was to have some enquiry made into the title of the judgment-debtor to the attached pro-party, so as to notify that title with some accuracy in the proclamation of sale, and by affording some security to bidders as to its probable value, to realise a better price for the benefit of both decree-holder and judgment-debtor. With this object it was directed that notice should be given to the parties to attend and settle the sale-proclamation. The decree-holder being present, verbal intimation sufficed, but it has become the practice to serve a regular notice on the judgment-debtor, who was almost invariably absent and unrepresented. This has necessitated the payment of a fee which varies from Rs. 2 in the superior to Rs. 1 in the lower Courts. In the course of my inspection I have always asked whether judgment-debtors ever attend on service of this notice, and I have always been told that they never do attend unless it be to object to the regularity of some of the previous proceedings in execution. The cost of the notice, however, adds materially to the costs of these proceedings. (It may perhaps be said, and with some force, that the conduct of debtors shows that they are not entitled to any consideration in this respect. But we should rather consider the full operation of these rules and how far they have succeeded in any respect except in adding to the cost and delays in bringing about the sale.) The next step is the affidavit of the decree-holder that he has made search in the Registration Office for incumbrances on the particular property and the result of such enquiry. The same information comes from every Court regarding this proceeding. As a rule, no enquiry is made or indeed can be made. If any endeavour is made in this direction, the Registration Officers point to some twenty registers, in some of which information, such as is required, may possibly be found. Few persons are competent, and still fewer have any leisure or inclination, to undertake such a task. So an affidavit sufficient to satisfy the Court is made that after search no incumbrance has been discovered, and to this affidavit there is attached, as a sort of voucher, that some search has been made, the receipt given by the Registration Officer for searching-fees paid. As a matter of fact, in nearly every case no real search has ever been made. If any incumbrance is notified, it is because it is a matter of local notoriety, or the incumbrancer has learnt of the attachment, and comes forward to protect himself. The affidavit and search, however, involve additional expenditure, and add further to the costs without any corresponding advantage to any one except the Government which takes the fees. So after some delay and the incurring of these additional costs, the sale-proclamation is settled almost always precisely in the terms in which the property was described by the decree-holder when he asked for an order of sale. The rules were primarily to relieve judgment-debtors by endeavouring to secure a better price for properties sold. I have failed to obtain any reliable information that this result has been attained. And, after all, it may well be asked whether judgment-debtors, who have studiously abstained from assisting the Courts thus benevolently endeavouring to relieve them, or who have even, as frequently happens, striven to obscure or repudiate their own title by setting up directly or indirectly that of a relative or dependent, are entitled to such consideration. To punish them by adding to the costs incurred in bringing the property to sale seems a strange departure from the original intention, while the delays which necessarily result are a serious inconvenience and vexation to decree-holders. It must naturally be a matter for mere speculation, since statistics could not be obtained on which any reliable conclusion could be formed, but I do not believe that any litigation has been avoided by such attempts to obtain better titles for auction-purchasers under these rules. Some improvement might be attained if a certificate were required from a Registration Officer regarding the result of enquiry into the title of an attached property, but I doubt extremely whether these officers would accept such a responsibility, and even if they did it would be impossible for any Court to control them so as to insist on a return being made within a reasonable time. The result would probably be a further delay in the holding of sales, and in the realisation of judgment-debts. I think therefore that a very radical alteration should be made in the rules.

The efficiency of the process-serving establishment naturally depends upon the capacity and supervision of the nazir. This has varied very considerably in the districts that I have visited. Sometimes I have found a regular system and a careful supervision that was most creditable. Complaints were rare, and when made they were carefully attended to. In other districts I found that matters were ill-regulated; in the desire to show a large surplus revenue, too many processes were made over at one time to the same peon with the certain consequence that either service was not properly made, or that returns were not made to the Courts on or before the days fixed for trial. In such districts, too, I heard complaints of delay in service of notices of appeal to respondents, such as to prevent their having an opportunity of objecting to a portion of the decree. I also occasionally found, with much regret, that in these districts complaints of the misconduct of peons received little attention; that there were delays in hearing them so as to discourage those who had suffered and had been compelled to make them; and that sometimes the punishments awarded were altogether inadequate to the character of the misconduct. These are matters that cannot be dealt with except by the Courts immediately concerned. I lost no opportunity of impressing the great importance of attention and strict discipline everywhere. I regretted also to find that some peons were still retained in nearly every district visited by me who were unable to read and write. These peons, I was always told, were old officers. Many years have, however, passed since the salaries of peons were raised, and the necessity for some education amongst the men employed was strictly enjoined. I cannot understand how a man who cannot read and write can possibly distinguish between a bundle of some twenty processes made over for service, or at all events, how he can possibly hope to distinguish amongst them so as to make proper returns of their service. No doubt some hardship must follow, but it is high time now that some term should be fixed within which the services of such men should be dispensed with in the interests of the public service.

I observed that in every station many peons, sometimes nearly one quarter of the total number, were not employed on serving processes but on other work, although their salaries were charged to the process-serving fund. Their duties were to keep order in Court, to wait on the various branches in the office, to assist the Record Office, or to guard the Court premises. The process fund is a special fund designed for a special purpose. Monies derived from process-fees cannot fairly be applied in maintaining establishments the duties of which are entirely of a different character. The fees realised might as properly be applied to the maintenance of police. The fact is that certain chuprassees are absolutely necessary in all these offices. These chuprassees some years ago used to be specially entertained for the Courts. For purposes of economy they were abolished, but without proper consideration of the probable result. They have now been retained in another form, but the expenditure falls on suitors rather than on Government. I wish prominently to call attention to this, because, although there is a large surplus shown to the credit of the process-serving establishment, a much larger surplus should be shown if the salaries of these men be excluded. The results therefore are such as justify a reduction in the fees charged such as I have recommended, or even to a still greater extent.

I have occasionally had complaints made to me regarding the manner in which Amins do their work. It was fairly said that the power in the hands of such men with some professional knowledge is almost absolute, and is very often improperly exercised with little possibility of supervision. A slight alteration in an angle may cost one of the parties the loss of a considerable piece of land, and though the injustice of this result may be patent, it requires professional knowledge which may not be available to detect and expose the source of the error. The remedy is to employ a superior class of men, and this necessarily involves the payment of higher salaries. The difficulty in altering the system arises from the attempt to adjust all receipts and expenditure on this account, not only in the general result, but district by district. This is, I think, attempting more than should be expected. Unfortunately, too, the spread of professional knowledge for such work has been slow, and there are seldom available for employment competent persons unconnected with the Courts whose services can be utilised to check the proceedings of Court Amins. The income derived from other sources connected with the administration of civil justice is so considerable that I think a small deficiency in one department, which cannot be made self-supporting, consistent with a proper administration, may be conceded. I would therefore recommend the gradual employment of a superior and higher class of Amins in some districts, where cases of some importance requiring their services are of comparatively frequent occurrence. The more insignificant cases might be left to an Amin of a lower grade, and the more competent and reliable officer might occasionally be employed to check the work of these officers. Some such reform is absolutely necessary, for the inferior and unreliable work of the Amins is a blot on our administration, and the necessity which too frequently occurs for a second, and even a third, measurement and survey leads to much confusion, and adds considerably to the expenses of a suit.

I have carefully examined the Record Officers of the District Courts that I inspected, and I also examined the Record Office at Patna, though I was unable to stop to inspect the Courts at that station. In each instance, I have noted separately the result of my examination. Except in Chittagong, where a new Record Office should be built, and at Surr (Beerbhoom) where the opening of communication with an adjoining room and a slight re-arrangement of the office accommodation is necessary, the Record Offices inspected—that is, at Arrah, Mozufferpore, Bankipore, Kri-hnagur, Jessore, Backergunge and Cuttack—are sufficiently commodious for the requirements of several years to come. In some instances better racks should be given, and in others some new racks, reaching to the ceiling, should be constructed. I have pointed out these defects to the District Judges concerned, and recommended that they should apply for what is needed. The work in the Record Offices is generally much in arrears.

Chittagong, as I have already reported, the Record Office is in a state of utter confusion; Jessore, though there is some attempt at arrangement, there are no catalogues of the records preserved, and there are considerable arrears in the current work. Elsewhere there are arrears varying in magnitude for which extra temporary establishments have been obtained, or are necessary. The state of the record-rooms generally requires more personal attention from District Judges. The existence of such arrears everywhere is principally due to the gradual increase of litigation for many years past, which has thrown much additional work on the record establishments. These establishments have, however, remained stationary, and have not been strengthened so as to deal with this additional work. The work thrown upon Record-keepers and the responsibilities of that office have largely increased under the practice introduced by the Government and the High Court of examining court-fee labels on the records and re-punching them: also of granting certificates of monies realised in execution of decrees. The duty of supplying any new statistics that may be required is also thrown upon the Record Office. All this has contributed to the accumulation of arrears, and not only are additional temporary establishments necessary, but the office allowed must permanently be strengthened. I have endeavoured, in communication with the District Judges whom I have met, to make some recommendations on both these points. It will be a matter of no difficulty to determine what is required elsewhere, having regard to the existing state of the record-rooms and the number of records annually received. In connection with this subject I would mention that I have occasionally found apprentices and even process-serving peons employed in Record Offices. I have not attempted to order them to be excluded, because I felt that until a proper establishment was sanctioned, serious inconvenience would result from depriving the Record Officers of such assistance. At the same time, I think that this system of employing irresponsible and unpaid men in such an office cannot be too strongly condemned, and I trust that orders may soon be passed which will enable the District Judges to dispense with the services of such men.

It is probably unnecessary to say much on what is known as the system of Rent-Suit Munsif, by which is meant the practice under which, where there are two or more Munsifs at the same station, it is usual to vest one with powers of a Small Cause Judge to try suits of value not exceeding Rs 50, and to direct that he do also try all rent-suits, while the more difficult suits, connected with title to land, are tried by the other Munsif. The primary object is to accelerate the decision of petty cases and suits under the Rent Law, and it was calculated that ordinarily this would effect a fair division of the work. I am inclined to think that in both these objects this system has failed, and that in other respects it is undesirable. A system is in force under which all petty suits and rent-suits, as well as uncontested suits of all kinds, are always first taken up by Civil Courts, the preference alone being given to a part-heard case of the previous day. If, therefore, these petty suits and rent-suits be tried by two or more Munsifs instead of by only one, they are more likely to be tried by a greater number of officers instead of constituting the sole work of one officer. By these means also the labours of all officers will be equalised, whereas under the special system one officer becomes a machine to decide the easiest class of cases, while the other officer is called upon constantly to exercise all his powers in the decision of difficult and involved cases. Nor is the division of the work at all equal. Towards the end of March and during April, the end of the Bengali year, there is an extraordinary flood of suits under the Rent Law. The Special Munsif and his establishment have the greatest difficulty in dealing with these suits in their preliminary stages; eventually the pressure is more than one officer can bear, and so it nearly always happens that a large number of these suits are transferred to the other Munsif. Later in the year, the Special Munsif frequently finds himself with little work, whereas the transfer of rent-suits has deranged the file of the other Munsif, and thus a transfer of the other kind of suits becomes necessary, and all attempts to ensure any regularity in either Court fails. I should have thought that, with the practice of invariably giving precedence to petty cases, rent-suits, and uncontested cases which is everywhere prevalent, it would require little argument to show that a division of local jurisdiction among the Munsifs, instead of a division of their actual work, would be an arrangement infinitely preferable. However, the new Rent Law will introduce a change in the manner of trying the less important cases under it, and therefore it is hardly necessary to pay much attention to a system which must be re-considered.

I have already adverted to the insufficiency of the ministerial establishments allowed to the Subordinate Civil Courts and the inadequacy in the rates of pay. During my tour I have had brought to my notice several instances in which it was clear that particular Amla should be transferred to another locality, either because they were employed where they had many local connections, or for some other similar reason. For many years it has been the rule to transfer Judicial officers after service in any particular place, and the benefits of such a system have been admitted. But it is even more necessary occasionally to transfer ministerial officers, for it not unfrequently happens that a Munsif finds it almost impossible to counteract the influence of his Amla. Ministerial establishments have, since 1874, been placed directly under Government, and therefore in representing this matter I trust that District Judges may be directed occasionally to transfer subordinate Amla. I am aware that such transfer must be attended with much hardship. The pay of an Amla is not more than sufficient to maintain him near his own home, and he can ill-afford the expense of a transfer. Still the interests of the public service, in my opinion, demand occasional removals, and this will, I trust, be borne in mind in any re-adjustment of salaries. It is especially desirable that the higher ministerial officers should not be employed in districts in which their homes are, and though from the higher character of such officers occasional transfers are not so necessary as in the case of the ordinary Amla, I am inclined to think that such transfers are often attended with the best results.

I trust that I have shown the necessity for a more complete and early inspection of our Civil Courts, and I strongly recommend that such inspections shall in future be at shorter intervals than heretofore. I feel sure that much benefit must result from such inspections; especially amongst the less experienced of our officers. The faults of many of our Judges are, I believe, due to their never having learnt how to do their work, and to their having generally, through a mistaken idea of their own responsibilities and duties, followed a wrong system. They thus occupy themselves in enquiring into details so as to lose sight of the real points at issue, and needlessly waste their time, while failing to grasp the merits of a case. It is almost hopeless to expect that any Judge, who after several years has become inured to such a system, can be induced to adopt another, but the younger officer will always be found most anxious to receive any instruction. I have thus observed Judges hearing Civil Appeals, reading the entire record for themselves instead of adopting the usual course of requiring the pleaders to point to the evidence on which they rely in support of their arguments. Some I have seen with the entire record transliterated for easy reference, and others I have found following a practice introduced by a predecessor which they have hesitated to alter, although it did not commend itself to them. There are minor points of practice to which I might also refer, on all of which, even during a very short visit I was able to afford instruction.

The object of my deputation was not to inspect the Criminal Courts, and the time at my disposal would not have admitted of my doing so, but I desire to state my opinion that an inspection by a Judge or Judges of the High Court is necessary, especially to ascertain the manner in which business is transacted by Benches of Magistrates. It has also been brought to my notice that the Sessions Judges, who, as Courts of Appeal, alone see the original work done by Magistrates of the first class, and as Sessions Courts try cases committed by them, have no opportunity of expressing any opinion, and as a matter of fact are never asked their opinions regarding such officers. It is only in somewhat recent years that this has been discontinued. Promotion is accordingly given on opinions expressed by District Magistrates and Commissioners, and therefore only on executive capacity exhibited. This is as great a mistake as to promote such officers solely for judicial capacity, and cannot but act prejudicially to the proper performance of their judicial work. On the other hand, the opinions of Sessions Judges are asked regarding Magistrates of the second class before they receive higher powers, when obviously the Judges can have had little opportunity of forming any opinion of the work of these officers, since they can see only cases committed by Magistrates of the second class, and necessarily few, and those very unimportant cases, are so committed, the bulk of this class of work falling to the more experienced Magistrates of the first class.

6. No assessment amounting to rupees two hundred and fifty or upwards shall be made by the Income-tax Deputy Collector, but by the Collector of the district.

7. The power of hearing and passing orders on petitions of objection, under section 26 of the Act, shall not be exercised by Income-tax Deputy Collectors, except in cases where the amount of assessment to which the petition relates is less than rupees two hundred and fifty.

8. The forms to be used under the Act shall be those contained in the schedule annexed to these rules. Consistently with these rules, the Commissioner of Income Tax may alter these forms, or prescribe other forms as may from time to time be required. Forms of returns will be supplied by the Collector free of charge to persons requiring them.

9. Every return made under the Act by a local authority, company, public body or association, or private employer, shall be subscribed by the person making it with a declaration that it is correctly prepared in accordance with the provisions of the Act.

10. In the case of a company, public body or association, mentioned in sections 9 and 10 of the Act, the Collector may cause a general notice in form E to be published, inviting the principal officer of such company, public body or association, when submitting the return of salaries, annuities, pensions and gratuities which he is required by section 10 to furnish to the Collector on or before the fifteenth day of April each year, to state whether he is willing to collect the tax due from the persons included in the return, and to forward the amount to the Collector on condition of being allowed a remission of a portion of the amount payable on the terms specified in rule 13 below. 17. The list to be published and the notification prefixed thereto shall be in the language of the district to which they refer, but the Collector, if he thinks fit, may also publish them in English.

ASSESSED TAXES.

No. 593.

The 5th February 1886.

In exercise of the powers conferred upon him by Act II of 1886, and of all other enabling him in this behalf, the Honourable the President in Council is pleased to make following rules under the said Act:—

1. The time within which amounts deducted from salary, annuity, pension, or gratuity paid by a local authority under section 8, sub-section (1) of the Act must be paid to the credit of the Government of India is fixed at one week from the date of payment of the salary, pension, annuity, or gratuity. The payment to the credit of the Government shall be made by remitting the amount to the Collector with a statement giving the following particulars for each person from whom the tax has been realised:—

(1) Name.

(2) Period for which the salary has been paid.

(3) Amount of salary paid.

(4) Amount of tax.

2. The return required by section 10 of the Act shall be in Form A hereto appended.

3. Any sums, such as payments to regimental mess or band funds or the like, compulsorily stopped from salary by the orders, or with the approval, of Government, shall be deducted from the salary previous to assessment.

A portion of salary withheld in pursuance of an order of a Court is not a sum compulsorily stopped from salary within the meaning of this rule.

4. A deduction made from the amount of salary, pension, or annuity liable to assessment on account of a payment made to a life insurance company must be supported by the receipt of the insurance company for the payment and a copy thereof. When the deduction is claimed by a servant of the Government, or of a local authority, the officer paying the salary, pension, or annuity will compare the original receipt with the copy, return the original, and attach the copy to the salary, pension or annuity bill if the payee is a Government servant, and to the statement forwarded with the amount of the tax realised under Rule 1, if the payee is a servant of a local authority.

Where the Collector is satisfied that the original receipt of the insurance company cannot be produced without an amount of delay, expense, or inconvenience which, under the circumstances of the case, would be unreasonable, he may accept such other proof of payment of the premium as he may deem sufficient.

5. The amounts exempted from assessment by section 5, sub-section (1), clause (g) of the Act and by rule 4 above shall not be deducted from income for the purpose of determining whether the income is liable to the tax, or of determining the rate at which the tax shall be levied.

6. The amount to be assessed under section 24, sub-section (1) of the Act on account of a building occupied by the owner thereof shall not in any case exceed 10 per cent. of the aggregate income of the owner derived from all sources. It will not, however, be understood from this that a maximum of 10 per cent. of the aggregate income of the owner is to be considered equivalent to the letting-value of his house. The letting-value will, in all cases, be ascertained on the best data available, in view of the circumstances of the locality in which the house is situated.

7. Salaries, annuities, and pensions paid in April 1886, though on account of March 1886, are liable to the tax.

8. After the close of the year of assessment each Accountant-General or other auditing officer shall submit Return No. I in the form hereto appended to such officer as the Local Government may direct.

9. The certificates referred to in the second column of Part III of Schedule II of the Act shall be in Form B or in Form C hereto appended.

10. Any claim under section 5, sub-section (1), clause (e) of the Act to exemption from the levy of the tax on the interest of securities employed solely for religious or public charitable purposes within the meaning of that clause must be supported by a certificate from the Collector, which shall be in Form D hereto appended.

11. In the case of securities, the interest on which is payable by the Government of India, the amount deducted on account of the tax under section 13, sub-section (1) of the Act shall be paid to the credit of the Government on the same day as the payment of the interest is made.

12. In the case of securities, the interest on which is not payable by the Government of India, the amount so deducted shall be paid to the credit of the Government within one week it to show the date on which interest is paid. The person deducting the amount should pay credit of the Government by remitting the amount to the Collector with a statement showing the following particulars:—

- (1) Name of owner.
- (2) Description of security.
- (3) Number of „
- (4) Date of „
- (5) Amount of „
- (6) Period for which interest is drawn.
- (7) Amount of interest.
- (8) Amount of tax.

13. Interest on securities belonging to Service Funds shall not be assessed.

14. After the close of the year of assessment each Accountant-General and Comptroller shall submit Return No. II in the form hereto appended to such officer as the Local Government may direct.

15. In calculating the amount of tax payable, the amount due on a fraction of a rupee shall be neglected. Thus the tax to be realised on a monthly salary of Rs. 166-10-8 is Rs. 4-5-2 only.

16. All public servants are forbidden to make public or disclose, except for the purpose of the working of Act II of 1886, any information contained in documents delivered or produced with respect to assessments under Part IV of the said Act, and any public servant committing a breach of this rule shall be deemed to have committed an offence under section 166 of the Indian Penal Code.

17. Power to make further rules is hereby delegated to the several Local Governments.

18. Each Local Government will prescribe form of registers to be maintained by Collectors and others for the purpose of showing the demand and collections of the tax, the various classes of incomes assessed, and the working of the several provisions of the Act.

19. After the close of the year of assessment each Local Government will submit to the Government of India in the Financial Department a report on the working of the Act.

20. The following returns in the forms hereto appended will be submitted with that report —

Change in the Anchorage limits of the Port of Mangalore.

In supersession of all previous Notices to Mariners issued from this Department, notice hereby given that the Gûrûpûr, or Northern mouth of the harbour at Mangalore is closed to traffic for sea-going vessels, owing to the bad state of the mouth and the intricacy of the channel leading into the port.

Pattimars and other small native craft may enter at high-water by the Ullal or Southern mouth, and will find good anchorage inside the sand spit at the Southern Boundary Pillar; as the bar is very shallow, no buggalows, kolias, or other large native vessels can enter the harbour laden, nor find any shelter from North-Westers prevailing in March, April, and May. All such vessels bound for the Port of Mangalore should therefore be provided with good ground tackle for anchoring in the outer roadstead in not less than 4 fathoms of water (low water), with the lighthouse bearing between E. by N. and N.E. by E.

Change in the Anchorage limits of the Port of Mangalore.

In supersession of all previous Notices to Mariners issued from this Department, notice is hereby given that the Gúrpúr, or Northern mouth of the harbour at Mangalore, is closed for traffic for sea going vessels, owing to the bad state of the mouth and the intricacy of the channel leading into the port.

Partimars and other small native craft may enter at high-water by the Ullal or Southern mouth, and will find good anchorage inside the sand spit near the Southern Boundary Pillar; but as the bar is very shallow, no buggalows, kotias, or other large native vessels can enter the harbour laden, nor find any shelter from North-Westers prevailing in March, April, and May. All such vessels bound for the Port of Mangalore should therefore be provided with good ground tackle for anchoring in the outer roadstead in not less than 4 fathoms of water (low water), with the lighthouse bearing between E. by N. and N.E. by E.

READ—

Report of the Committee appointed to enquire into and report on the working and management of the Circular Canals.

Report by the Board of Revenue.

Letter from the Board of Revenue giving details of existing administrative arrangements.

Note by Chief Engineer.

RESOLUTION.—In discussing the general management of these canals the Committee reported that since 1855 the supervision of the Calcutta Canals has been directly under the Commissioner of the Nuddea or Presidency Division, and they did not consider that this worked well. There was not, however, a consensus of opinion as to what change should be made, two of the Committee recommending that the Supervisor should be placed under the Magistrate-Collector of the 24-Pergunnahs, one member being of opinion that the canals should form a sub-division of the Eastern and Circular Canals Division under the Executive Engineer.

The question was an important one, and the opinions of the Commissioner and of the Board of Revenue were specially called for. The former upheld the proposal to place the general management under the Magistrate-Collector, while the Board of Revenue considered that the existing system should hold, or that the Supervisor should work directly under the Board. On a full consideration of all that has been urged, the Lieutenant-Governor is of opinion that the present system fails in securing that close personal supervision which is so much needed, while nothing would be gained by a transfer of the Magistrate-Collector, that officer being quite as unable as the Commissioner of the Presidency Division to afford the necessary leisure. It has never been the practice for the Board of Revenue in its single or collective capacity to visit, inspect, and examine the working of any department. All the action they could take would be upon the submission of returns and reports, and this is not exactly the system which the necessities of the case most require. His Honor is therefore of opinion that the working of these canals should be placed under the Executive and Superintending Engineers, subject to the orders of Government in the Irrigation Department of Public Works. Accordingly the following notification is issued.

The other proposals and recommendations of the Committee will be dealt with departmentally.

NOTIFICATION.

It is hereby notified for general information that from the 1st April next the management of the Calcutta Canals will vest in the Public Works Department, and that the regulation of the traffic and collection of tolls will be carried out, according to the rules in force from time to time, under the orders of the Executive Engineer, Eastern and Circular Canals Division, who is hereby appointed a "Supervisor," under sections 8 and 13 of Act V (B.C.) of 1864.

No. 121.—Notification.—It is hereby notified, under section II, Act V of 1864 (B.C.), in supersession of all previous notifications, that the provisions of the said Act shall apply to the following navigable channels from 1st April 1886, viz:—

I.—The Circular Canal, comprising the whole of the still-water canals between the Dhappa and Chitpore Locks, together with its junction with the river Hooghly, and the Orange Soorah at Dhappa.

II.—The Central Lake Channel, from its junction with the Calcutta Canal at the Dhappa Lock to its junction with the Biddiadharee at Bamunghatta.

III.—The Nowbhanga khal, extending northwards for a mile from its junction with the Central Lake Channel below the Dhappa Lock.

IV.—The Soorah, from its junction with the Central Lake Channel below the Dhappa Lock, and extending to the fish market situated adjacent to, and to the west of, the Dhappa Inspector's residence.

V.—Tolly's Nullah, extending from its junction with the river Hooghly at Kidderpore to the Biddiadharee river at Samookpottah.

VI.—The Biddiadharee river from Bamunghatta to Samookpottah.

No. 122.—Notification.—Agreeably to section VI of the Canals Act, V of 1864 (B.C.), it is hereby notified that, on and after the 1st April 1886, licenses for a period not exceeding six months will be granted on the rates mentioned below for boats plying on the Circular Canal between the locks at Dhappa and Chitpore. The number of licenses will be restricted to 20, and boats carrying such license will have free use of the Canal within the locks named above—

Rs. A.

For boats measuring up to 150 maunds ... 5 0 per mensem.

For every additional 50 maunds above 150 maunds 2 8 ditto.

Licenses can be obtained on application to the Executive Engineer, Calcutta, and Eastern Canals Division.

83. Emigrants shall not leave the depôt for embarkation before they have had a cooked meal, except with the special sanction of the Protector, which shall only be given under very exceptional circumstances.

84. Before the arrival of the emigrants, a supply of good drinking water shall be provided at the wharf for their use while undergoing final identification and medical examination.

CHAPTER IV. TRANSPORT ARRANGEMENTS.

SECTION I.—General Rules.

85. The Medical Inspector of Emigrants shall be jointly responsible with the Protector of Emigrants for the suitability of the general fittings and hospital arrangements of emigrant ships; for the quality and sufficiency of the provisions and medical stores shipped for the voyage; and for the fitness for duty, in point of health, of the ship's officers and crew. He shall also be present with the Protector at the surveys of emigrant ships, and at the embarkation of emigrants; and he shall see that everything is done to secure the comfort of the emigrant passengers, and to render the occurrence of disease among them improbable.

86. Unless the Surgeon Superintendent shall have been nominated by the Crown Agents, or by the Colonial Government, the Emigration Agent shall appoint a Medical Officer, in all respects fully qualified, to be Surgeon Superintendent. Every such appointment shall be made subject to the approval of the Protector and Medical Inspector, which shall not be given unless the officer appointed (a) holds a medical diploma of some recognised college or (b) has previously to the publication of these rules sailed in medical charge of Emigrants to the Colonies under Act VII of 1871.

87. Every Medical Officer, on receiving from the Agent his appointment as Surgeon Superintendent, shall call at the Protector's office for the purpose of having his papers examined; and, if his nomination be approved, registered for future reference.

88. Every Surgeon Superintendent appointed to an emigrant vessel shall be present throughout her preparation for the voyage. If residing on shore, he shall send all his heavy baggage on board not later than the evening of the day preceding that fixed for embarkation with a view to being free on the day of embarkation to attend at the depôt and wharf for the uninterrupted discharge of the several duties devolving on him in connection with the embarkation of emigrants. On the day of embarkation he shall attend at the wharf at least one hour before the time fixed for the embarkation.

89. A properly qualified compounder, or a properly qualified native doctor engaging to perform the duties of a compounder, shall, subject to the approval of the Protector and Medical Inspector of Emigrants be appointed by the Agent to every vessel chartered for the conveyance of emigrants: and shall call at the Protector's Office for registration of his name and necessary particulars. Should the number of emigrants to be carried exceed 500, or should other exceptional circumstances render it absolutely necessary in the opinion of the Medical Inspector, to appoint a second compounder, such compounder shall be appointed accordingly. Every compounder shall be qualified to act as interpreter. For the purposes of this rule two children under ten years of age shall be reckoned as one emigrant.

90. Every compounder appointed to an emigrant vessel shall take his effects on board, on the evening of the day previous to that fixed for embarkation; shall attend at the depôt and wharf throughout the day of embarkation, and shall render to the Emigration Agent and Surgeon Superintendent such assistance as they may need in arranging for the embarkation.

91. A store-keeper, who shall be fully qualified to keep a correct account in English of the issue of stores, shall be appointed by the Master, with the approval of the Protector of Emigrants, and shall be placed on the ship's articles. Such store-keeper may be the third officer of the ship.

92. The Agent shall appoint to every vessel chartered for the conveyance of emigrants the staff of attendants prescribed in scale No. 5 of schedule G. Such attendants shall, whenever practicable, be selected from among those accustomed to a sea-life, and previously trained, either in depôt or elsewhere, to the kind of work to be performed on board.

93. Emigrants, who volunteer for the work, may be appointed by the Emigration Agent as cooks, nurses, and topazes. One of the nurses, best fitted for the work of supervising and directing the other nurses, shall be appointed head nurse.

94. Separate agreements in duplicate shall be entered into with the compounders, nurses, and other attendants; and shall, in the cases of natives of India, provide for a free return passage to that country; and, in those of West Indians or Africans, for a free passage to their homes.

95. The duplicate copy of such agreements executed as above shall, after the departure of the vessel, be forwarded by the Emigration Agent to the office of the Protector for submission to Government.

96. The attendants on emigrants shall during the voyage be under the immediate control of the Surgeon Superintendent, who shall be at liberty to disrate or dismiss any of them for misconduct, and to appoint others in their stead or add to their number in case of emergency or necessity.

97. The services of the compounder and store-keeper shall be entirely at the disposal of the Surgeon Superintendent. It shall be their duty to assist that officer in maintaining discipline among the attendants; to see that all instructions are fully carried out; to report to him any irregularities and cases of sudden sickness; to help in issuing rations and water, and in distributing the meals; and to supervise generally, under the orders of the Surgeon Superintendent, all matters affecting the welfare of the emigrant passengers.

98. No pigs, dogs or ferocious or dangerous animals shall be allowed on board, nor shall any of the articles specified in schedule E be carried as cargo on board an emigrant vessel.

Section II.—Emigrant Vessels.

99. When a vessel is to be chartered in India for the conveyance of emigrants, the Agent concerned shall avoid engaging (a) any vessel that is not classed as provided in schedule A appended to the rules; and (b), if practicable, any vessel that has carried a salt cargo on her previous voyage.

100. With a view to facilitate visits of emigration officers to an emigrant vessel, lying off Calcutta, for the purposes of survey and inspection, the master of such vessel shall, as early as possible, arrange with the Port authorities to have her moored in an inshore berth, if such a berth is available.

101. As soon as a vessel is chartered, the Emigration Agent shall forward to the Protector a certified copy of the charter-party, with a request for her survey, and shall direct the master to apply to the local Government, through the office of the Protector, for the requisite license to carry emigrants.

102. The master shall personally submit his application for a license in form No. 23: and shall therein furnish information as to—

- (a) the number of emigrants which he believes his vessel to be capable of carrying under sections 57 and 58 of the Act;
- (b) the ship's classification;
- (c) the ship's tonnage;
- (d) whether the ship is fitted with any apparatus for securing artificial ventilation; and of what description;
- (e) whether the ship's receptacles for drinking water are separately constructed tanks, or mere compartments of the hull; and what was last stored in them;
- (f) the cargo last carried; and
- (g) whether cholera, small-pox, measles, scarlet fever, yellow fever or other dangerous communicable disease has occurred on board during either of the ship's last two voyages.

Instructions to Surgeon Superintendent.

The Surgeon Superintendent should keep a daily journal of his proceedings during the voyage, noting therein every event of moment at the time of its occurrence. In addition, he should enter the dates when the decks are scrubbed or otherwise cleaned; the ship fumigated, if necessary; the bottom-boards of the hospital bunks taken out on to the upper deck and scrubbed; the blankets shaken and aired; the bathing days and washing days; and the days on which he does not inspect the emigrants with the reason for the omission. He should state every day the nature of the weather and the latitude and longitude, and should notice the crossing of the tropics and of the line. He should enter any noteworthy instances of the good or bad conduct of those on board, or of the working of the regulations for their discipline, and copies of any letters he may write or receive on service. At the end of the journal he should place together all his general observations on the voyage, mentioning every objection he may see reason to form to the regulations, or to the victualling, or any other part of the arrangements, and stating the remedy which he would propose.

The Surgeon Superintendent should bear in mind that this journal is a very important document, not only as concerns his charge, but himself, and should be a faithful record of the occurrences of the voyage. It should therefore be carefully kept, and all matters, which have any bearing upon his functions should be noted therein. A careful entry should be made of all complaints made to him by the emigrants, and the measures taken to remedy them; and in case any investigation be necessary, the Surgeon Superintendent should request the master of the vessel to assist him. The evidence taken and the decision arrived at should be carefully entered and signed by the witnesses, by himself and by the master of the vessel and should be read to the complainant, who should be also required to sign it as a correct record of the proceedings. The occurrences of each day should be entered before its close, while fresh in the Surgeon Superintendent's memory, and loose memoranda should never be used.

On receipt from the Emigration Agent of the effects of any deceased emigrants, the Protector shall enter all such effects in a register of deceased emigrants' estates in Form No. 58, and, after disposing to the best advantage by private or public sale of any miscellaneous articles, shall, pending enquiry for heirs, deposit in the Treasury Department of the Bank of Bengal or Madras, as the case may be, the aggregate amount at credit of the estate.

206. The enquiry for relatives entitled to succession shall be made by the Protector of Emigrants through district officers, and if such relatives are traced, the Protector shall withdraw the amount deposited in the Bank, and shall transmit it to the district officer concerned for payment to the person or persons reported by him to be the legal heir or heirs to the estate.

Enquiry for legal heirs.

Provided that where the unsold property of the deceased and the deposit in the Bank to the credit of his estate exceed three hundred rupees in value, the District officer shall not be bound to deliver the property or pay the money to the person or persons reported to be the legal heir or heirs except on the production of probate, letters of administration, certificate or other satisfactory evidence of title.

207. After all enquiries for the heirs of Indian emigrants dying on the return voyage from the colonies have been completed, and after the estates to which succession has been traced have been administered to, the Protector shall report to the Local Government the results of his proceedings, and shall dispose of any vacant estates in accordance with the orders received in each case.

Report of disposal of deceased emigrants' estates.

APPENDIX TO THE RULES UNDER THE INDIAN EMIGRATION ACT, XXI OF 1885.

N.B.—Throughout this Appendix provided that there is nothing repugnant in the subject or context, two children under 10 years of age shall be reckoned as one emigrant.

SCHEDULE A.

Requirements for Emigrant Vessels.—The Marine Surveyor shall satisfy himself, in respect to every vessel chartered for the conveyance of emigrants, either that, if constructed of iron or steel, she is classed in Lloyd's Register of British and Foreign Shipping * A1, A1, or 100 A1; or that, if of composite construction or built of wood, she is classed A1 in Lloyd's Register, or does not exceed in age once and two-thirds her original classification: or that she has been pronounced in Calcutta or Madras, as the case may be, by at least two competent Surveyors of Shipping, after a full and careful survey in the manner prescribed by Lloyd's rules, to be fully equal to vessels classed as above.

Examination in dry dock.—No iron vessel shall be eligible for the conveyance of emigrants unless she has been examined in dry dock, or in slip-way, within twelve months of the date on which she is to sail: and no wooden vessel shall be eligible unless she has been so examined within eighteen months of that date. In case a vessel has been stranded, she shall be examined in dry dock before being certified as eligible, notwithstanding that she may have been so examined shortly before such stranding took place.

Internal examination.—The vessel shall be opened up for internal examination, by the ceiling being lifted or listings cut as required, to the entire satisfaction of the Marine Surveyor.

Rigging in general.—Masts, spars, and rigging of every vessel shall be in all respects in accordance with Lloyd's requirements for vessels of her tonnage; and suitable spare spars shall be provided to the satisfaction of the Marine Surveyor.

Rigging for steamers.—Every steamer shall be sufficiently well rigged to enable her to bear up under canvas for a lee port, in case of accident to her machinery.

Every vessel shall be provided with anchors, cables, and hawsers, in accordance with Lloyd's requirements for vessels' tonnage. All the cables shall be taken out of lockers for examination when required by the Marine Surveyor, and at least once a year; and all shackle-pins shall be backed out and cleaned, &c.

Two complete snits of sails, and proper storm sails, shall be provided in every sailing or steam-vessel, and all necessary running gear shall be provided to the satisfaction of the Marine Surveyor. One complete suit of main, quarter, and poop-deck awnings shall also be provided.

Scale according to tonnage of the number of hands to be carried in sailing and steam-vessels.

Sailing vessels.—(a) For the first 500 tons and under, Europeans four hands, and natives six hands to every 100 tons.

(b) From 600 to 1,500 tons, Europeans two additional hands, and natives three additional hands to every additional 100 tons.

(c) From 1,500 tons upwards, Europeans and natives one additional hand to every additional 100 tons.

Steam vessels.—(a). For the first 500 tons and under, Europeans three hands, and natives five hands to every 100 tons.

(b) From 600 to 1,500 tons, Europeans one and a half additional hands, and natives two additional hands to every additional 100 tons.

(c) From 1,500 tons upwards, Europeans half an additional hand, and natives one additional hand to every additional 100 tons.

The total number of hands shall include the master and the four officers: and two-thirds of the ship's company, exclusive of the master and the four officers, shall be made up of (A. Bs.) able seamen. In case of mixed crews the number shall be in proportion.

The master and the four officers shall possess certificates of competency corresponding to their rank; or in the case of the officers, certificates of higher grade and not only of service; and shall not be natives. They shall, if a native crew be carried, be capable of issuing their orders intelligibly. In the case of steam-vessels, no steamer shall carry less than three engineers: and every steamer of one hundred nominal horse-power and upwards as per ship's register shall carry, as First Engineer, an engineer holding a first class certificate; and as Second Engineer, an engineer holding a second class certificate or a certificate of a higher grade, being in every case certificates of either competency or service, but not of inland service. In steamers of under one hundred nominal horse-power, the First Engineer shall hold a second class certificate or a certificate of a higher grade, of either competency or service, but not of inland service. The engine-room crew, exclusive of the three engineers, shall be in number not less than in the ratio of six men for every hundred nominal horse-power, if Europeans; and nine men, if natives.

Decks and deck openings.

Between-decks.—Thickness.—The between-decks shall be at least one and a half inch thick, properly laid, and thoroughly caulked and paid throughout.

Height.—The between-decks shall in no case be less in height from deck to deck than six feet, and emigrants shall not be accommodated in any lower passenger deck than the between-decks.

Iron decks.—Every vessel bound to any place west of the Cape of Good Hope, or to Fiji via South Australia, having iron between-decks, shall have a water-tight wooden deck properly laid over it.

Hatches.—The hatches of the between-decks shall not have gratings, but shall be solid, strong, in good condition, and well fitted. Any hatch that is not to be caulked for the voyage shall be closed, and covered with sound tarpaulins properly fastened down to the combings by means of iron bars securely locked.

Air holes.—All air holes and other apertures, likely to allow the escape of effluvia from the cargo or bilge into the between-decks, shall be effectually closed.

Pipes.—All pipes leading from the ship's water-closets, baths, or cisterns shall be ascertained by the Marine Surveyor to be perfectly sound and in good order. The pipes intended for the conveyance anywhere of sea, soiled, or waste water shall not pass through drinking water tanks; nor shall they be allowed to continue in any position in which they are likely by leaking to contaminate the purity of the drinking water, or of the air in the between-decks or other places intended for the accommodation of emigrants.

Upper deck thickness.—The upper deck of every emigrant vessel shall be properly laid, thoroughly caulked and paid throughout: and its thickness shall not be less than that given in Lloyd's rules for scantling according to the tonnage of the vessel.

Iron deck.—Every vessel with an iron upper deck shall have such deck covered with a properly laid water-tight wooden deck.

Structures.—All structures and fittings on the upper deck, such as the poop or round-house, deck-houses, galleys, water-closets, and booby-hatches, shall be strongly constructed; and if they are to be utilized for emigrants, the Marine Surveyor shall satisfy himself that they are properly built and secured, and that they conform to the regulations governing space and ventilation.

Lumber.—No lumber of any kind shall be placed on the upper deck, and all the necessary fittings, water-tanks, tubs, and spare spars shall be properly secured to the Marine Surveyor's satisfaction.

Water tanks.—The soundness, purity, and capacity of main tanks, or other fixed receptacles for water shall be examined and certified by the Marine Surveyor. Excepting after-compartments, if approved, no receptacles for water that form part of the hull of the vessel shall contain drinking water for either emigrants or crew.

Bilges.—The purity of the bilges shall be ascertained, and they shall be disinfected, if necessary, to the satisfaction of the Marine Surveyor.

SCHEDULE B.

VENTILATION AND LIGHTING OF EMIGRANT VESSELS.

General Rules.

The requirements of this schedule shall apply to all steam and sailing vessels chartered for the conveyance of emigrants.

2. The ventilation of the between-decks shall be distinct from that of the hold.

3. All air-holes in the between-decks communicating with the hold shall be effectually closed, to prevent the escape into the between-decks of foul air from the bilge, or of steam from the cargo; and all ventilating shafts, tubes, or other openings intended to promote the ventilation of the hold, shall be fitted to act independently of those adapted to the requirements of the between-decks ventilation.

The size and situation of all ventilators for the between-decks and hold respectively shall be determined with due regard to their efficiency and the safety of the vessel by the Marine Surveyor, who shall satisfy himself that all the appliances for both natural and artificial ventilation meet the requirements of the rules, and are in good working order.

The Marine Surveyor, on determining the size and situation of the requisite ventilators, shall cause the dimensions and positions of the between-deck ventilators to be marked with chalk or paint on the under surface of the upper deck so as to afford the Medical Inspector, when holding his primary inspection, an opportunity of judging of the intended means of ventilation, and of indicating any alterations which he may deem necessary in respect thereof.

Natural ventilation of between-decks.—Besides hatchways, cowls, or air-shafts, every vessel shall be provided with properly fitted double scuttles on each side, one of glass and one of metal, fitted independently of each other to the side of the ship. These shall be placed about 14 feet apart, and as close under the upper deck as possible; and with a view to prevent emigrants tampering with them, they shall fasten, when closed, by means of square-headed screw bolts without handles, capable of being opened only with a carpenter's spanner.

Exclusive of side and sternports, and, in steamers, of openings into the engine-room, stoke-holes, coal-bunkers, collision compartments, and screw tunnel, the effective size, or sectional area of the hatch openings and of other apertures for the ventilation of emigrants' compartments taken collectively, shall be calculated at the rate of not less than 50 square inches per emigrant, and at least one-fifth of such ventilating area shall be available even in excessively bad weather, necessitating the closing of hatches.

In view of the varying conditions to be dealt with, of the importance of fresh air, and of the facilities for reducing or modifying ventilation, any existing openings in excess of the prescribed approximate requirement shall not be closed, even on other grounds, without the written authority of the Marine Surveyor.

The relative positions of ventilating tubes or shafts in emigrant vessels shall be governed by the following rules:—

(a). A pair of cowl-headed tubes, or one large central tube or air-shaft, shall be fitted as far aft as possible, and similar ventilators shall be fitted as far forward as possible; and in no case shall they be more than six feet from the extreme end or bulk-head, aft or forward respectively, so that the between-decks may be thoroughly ventilated. All other tubes or air-shafts needed for the between-decks shall, as far as practicable, be so distributed in the intervening spaces between the several hatchways as to ensure throughout an equable supply of fresh air.

(b). Inlets for fresh air shall be so placed as to avoid, as much as possible, the risk of receiving the foul air from outlets.

(c). With a view to secure for ventilators the support and protection of the solid structures of the ship, and thus render them capable of being kept open in bad weather when the hatches have to be closed, as large a proportion as possible of the required ventilation shall be secured through cowl-headed tubes and air-shafts carried up directly from the between-decks to the open air above through the poop, deck-houses, and forecabin.

Such portions of the upper deck hatchways as are not fitted with storm hatches, and can safely be utilized for ventilation, shall be kept open, but shall be protected against accidents by iron gratings admitting of the hatches being closed and their covers readily put on when necessary. The appropriate hatches and their tarpaulins shall be securely and conveniently placed near the hatchways to which they belong for immediate use when needed.

Cowl-headed tubes shall, when practicable, be referred to air-shafts. But when cowls are largely or exclusively employed, and the decks are consequently dark, a sufficient number of deck-lights shall be fixed into the upper deck.

Every cowl-headed tube shall be fitted with an air diffuser at its lower end, and with a suitable plug for closing the deck opening in bad weather; and every air-shaft shall be provided with a sky-light cover, and a tarpaulin to be spread tent-fashion over it in wet weather, obviating the necessity for closing the sky-light cover for every passing shower.

No less than five wind-fails, each measuring fully 21 feet long, shall be provided for the exclusive use of the emigrants.

Of the cargo hold.—Exclusive of ventilation through hollow iron masts, the hold of every steam or sailing vessel shall be fitted, to the satisfaction of the Marine Surveyor, with cowl-headed ventilators, having an aggregate sectional area of not less than 4 square feet to every 1,000 tons of the vessel's register; and the mouth of every such cowl shall be protected by a convex wire netting protector, one-fourth inch mesh, against the possibility of live embers from pipes or chillams being thrown down into the hold.

The stoppage of ventilation through the masts or other ventilating openings shall be guarded against by arranging the dunnage and cargo about the outlets in such manner as to secure the continuous escape of foul air.

Ventilation.—Every sailing and steam vessel carrying emigrants to colonies west of the Cape shall be fitted with some efficient contrivance to be approved by the Protector and Medical Inspector of Emigrants for artificially ventilating the between-decks and hold. Provided that vessels which are at the time of the publication of these rules fitted with ventilating apparatus, approved under the rules under Act VII of 1871, shall be permitted to continue running with such apparatus. In the case of a vessel that is again chartered for the conveyance of coolies, the means of natural ventilation fitted for the last voyage need not be interfered with, provided that the Protector and Medical Inspector of Emigrants are satisfied that they continue the same and were found to be sufficient on that voyage.

SCHEDULE C.

At the time of survey the condenser shall be worked, the condensed water being delivered into a tub large enough to contain at least the quantity delivered by the condenser during the space of half an hour. This quantity shall be accurately measured by a stamped imperial gallon measure, to be furnished by the ship, and no allowance shall be made for any waste occurring from defective arrangements, that is to say, once the time has been taken as commencing the experiment, the quantity of water produced in the next half hour shall determine the efficiency of the machine.

The whole of the tools shall be shown to the Engineer-Surveyor, and be of a class that will satisfy his requirements.

SCHEDULE D.

FITTINGS FOR EMIGRANT VESSELS.

General Rules.

1. Whenever suitable and consistent with requirements, iron or other metal shall be employed in the construction of an emigrant ship's fittings.
Metal fittings. The water-closet seats or foot-rests, floors or troughs and their shoots, shall invariably be of metal or lined with zinc or lead, properly fastened or soldered.
2. Where wood has to be employed as in the case of bottom boards for bunks and sleeping platforms, it shall be of sufficient thickness—at least one inch—and smoothly planed before being utilized for any purpose. The wood used in constructing the combings of booby hatches, stanchions, and other supporting frames or structures shall not be less than three inches square; and the thickness of the planking used for platforms, bunks, water-closets and other similar purposes shall not be less than one inch.
Wooden fittings.
3. All fittings shall be strongly put together, and all hinges, bolts, clamps, metal ventilating tubes, cowl-heads and their deck phlanges, and every other description of fittings shall be thoroughly well fastened against rough usage.
Fastenings of fittings.
4. The cast-off wooden fittings of any emigrant vessel shall on no account be employed in fitting any other emigrant vessel; nor shall the wooden fittings of a previous voyage be utilised for any succeeding voyage without the written permission of the Medical Inspector of Emigrants obtained by the master during the primary inspection of his vessel.
Old fittings.

Fittings of the Upper Deck.

1. The hospital shall, in every case, be on the upper deck, and shall be fitted in a deck-house except in vessels proceeding to Fiji by the South Australian route, in which, if practicable, the forward poop cabins shall be fitted for hospital purposes. In the absence of a suitable deck-house, the hospital-house shall be built as strong, secure, and water-tight as a deck-house should be. The doors of the hospital-house shall, when practicable, be fitted aft, and accommodation shall be provided therein for two per cent. of the total number of emigrants to be carried in the vessel at the rate of 18 superficial feet per emigrant. The hospital space shall be divided by means of a bulk-head or screen, which shall be so constructed as not to interfere with ventilation, into two compartments for the separate accommodation of male and female patients, and shall be ventilated, lighted, and fitted to the satisfaction of the Medical Inspector. The bunks shall be constructed to fold out of the way when not needed, and shall be fitted with either bottom boards, or strong sacking bottoms, tightly stretched and securely fastened. In either case the bottoms shall be removeable and capable of being thoroughly cleaned, aired, and renewed if necessary during the voyage.
Hospital.
2. A well lighted and suitably fitted dispensary shall be provided, either in a deck-house, or in one of the forward poop cabins subject to the approval of the Medical Inspector. The dispensary shall be a compartment separate from the hospital or compounder's cabin, and shall be capable of holding a fitted medicine chest, a folding table, a small dispensary stove for the warming of food, &c., for patients during the night, and racks for drugs and appliances in immediate use. It shall be provided with a lock and key.
Dispensary.

3. A store-room, sufficiently large to hold the medical comforts (excepting wines and spirits), and any issue of ordinary provisions, shall be fitted in a deck-house or in one of the poop cabins, and shall be provided with lock and key.

4. A small compartment for the safe custody of all the spirits and wines stored for emigrant passengers and ship's use shall be provided in one of the cabins which shall be fitted with lock and key.

5. There shall be provided and fitted up in a covered space on the upper deck of every emigrant vessel an apparatus for distilling fresh from salt water (either Normandy's, Graveley's, Chaplin's, or such other, as may be approved by the Marine Surveyor) of a size calculated to yield as many gallons of distilled water in 24 hours as will be needed under scale allowance for the full number of emigrants and crew the vessel can legally carry. The apparatus shall be carefully examined and tested by the Engineer-Surveyor, who shall not give a certificate to the master until he is satisfied that all the requirements of the schedule have been complied with.

6. The emigrants' galley shall be provided in a deck-house and in a compartment separate from that of the ship's or crew's galley. It shall be fitted with a steam cooking apparatus approved by the Marine

Surveyor; and also with an ordinary cooking range, capable of baking chuppatis for the total number of emigrants to be carried, as well as of accommodating, in the event of any accident to the steam cooking apparatus, the full number of large-size regulation boilers to be put on board. A suitable lever with chains and hooks for lifting the boilers off the fire shall also be provided.

7. Structure.—Latrines shall be fitted in convenient positions close against the bulwarks, so that their soil shoots may lead immediately out of ports or other suitable openings, and be projected well beyond the vessel's side. They shall be well built, securely fastened to the deck and bulwarks, and made water-tight.

Blocks.—The latrines shall be in four separate blocks; two forward on the port and starboard side of the vessel respectively being reserved for men, and two aft on the port and starboard side respectively for women and children. Each block shall be provided with an inclined continuous metal floor or trough, as free as possible from obstructive angles, and terminating in the soil shoot with a good fall, favouring a free discharge of soil and fluids.

Compartments.—Every block shall be divided into separate private compartments, well ventilated, and lighted throughout the night by means of a safety lantern, so fitted as to distribute its light into all the compartments.

The total number of compartments shall be regulated according to the following scale:—

NUMBER OF EMIGRANTS TO BE CARRIED.	NUMBER OF COMPARTMENTS.				REMARKS.
	TO BE FITTED ON EACH SIDE OF DECK.			Total number on both sides.
	For men in forward block.	For women and children in after block.	Total num- ber.
For under 150 . . .	2	1	3	6	There should be three compartments on each side for any number under the first 150 emigrants, and in order to avoid crowding the decks with a larger number of closets than have been found by experi- ence to be sufficient, such number should not be increased at a higher rate than one compartment to every additional 50 emigrants.

Each compartment shall measure 22 inches in breadth and 28 inches in length, and the seat in it shall be 22 inches square. A metal foot-rest and hand-rail shall be fitted on either side of each compartment. Each of the foot-rests shall be seven inches wide, and they shall be so placed as to leave between them a central opening eight inches wide, directly over the closet floor or trough below. Every compartment shall, moreover, be fitted with a strongly hinged door, capable of closing automatically, and of being bolted or buttoned outside as well as inside, and each door shall have a double knotted hand-rope or becket passed through it for a handle. The three sides of each compartment, if of wood, shall be lined with metal to the height of one foot from the foot-rests.

Cemented floor.—The portion of the upper deck occupied by the latrines shall be cemented and coal-tarred throughout.

Seats.—Should the seats of any latrine compartment be unavoidably high, a convenient step shall be provided at the entrance.

Flushing.—With a view to the latrines being freely and frequently flushed by means of a hose and force-pump from the outside, a metal funnel shall be inserted under the foot-rests at each end of every block to admit a free charge of water over the floor or trough of the latrine below.

A strongly constructed platform shall be fitted between the skids or in some other convenient place aft, and shall be of sufficient size to admit of the stowage without crushing of the stock of onions on one side and of potatoes on the other, with a passage between; and of the slinging, if necessary, of the pumpkins under it. Two tarpaulins also shall be provided, each large enough to spread over the onions and potatoes respectively so as to effectually shelter them from rain. Such other tarpaulins as may be needed for the protection of pumpkins or other vegetables in exposed places shall also be provided.

8. The following miscellaneous requirements for the upper deck shall also be provided.

Tanks.—At least one conveniently placed and properly secured iron tank, capable of holding a day's allowance of water for the total number of emigrants to be carried, and fitted with an efficient rapid filter;

Miscellaneous requirements.

a locked cover for the manhole, a discharge pipe near the bottom for cleaning the tank, and at least two moderate sized taps, about one foot from the bottom and clear of sediment, with removable keys for each. Should a second tank be found necessary, it shall be similarly fitted, if not united, to the first by means of a connecting pipe about a foot from the bottom of each, admitting of its contents flowing into the first.

Sheep pens.—Sheep pens for emigrants' sheep separate from those required for the ship's sheep.

Dirt shoot.—A portable metal dirt shoot leading out of any port hole.

Bathing screen.—A canvas bathing screen for the women.

Booby hatches.—The hatchways of vessels bound to places east of the Cape, and to Fiji via Torres Strait, shall be fitted with strong iron frames for the support of closely fitting tarpaulins capable of being rolled up out of the way in fine weather; but those of vessels bound to places west of the Cape, and to Fiji via South Australia shall be fitted with strongly built water tight booby hatches, fastened securely outside the hatchway combings, leaving a few inches space all round between the combings and the inner sides of the booby hatches for the fastening, when necessary, of the ordinary hatches and their tarpaulins without interfering with the booby hatches. Whenever practicable, the booby hatches shall be so constructed as to admit of the ladders leading down into the between-decks being placed fore and aft, and of their lids opening, so that the gangway may be either at the forward or after end of the hatch, whichever proves most convenient; but in any case, to avoid accidents, the open spaces under the lids opposite the gangways shall be protected by means of iron rod gratings. The lids when open shall rest against, and be capable of being securely fastened to, strong gallows fitted to each hatch; and should they be large, each lid shall be divided into two parts capable of being folded back twice.

Tent tarpaulins.—Every hatchway shall be provided with a large tarpaulin, which can be spread tent-fashion over it in wet weather. In the case of any hatchway that is fitted with a storm-hatch, and also with an adjoining grating for ventilation, the tarpaulins shall be sufficiently large to completely cover and protect from rain not merely the storm-hatch but also the grating covered ventilating portion of the open hatch.

Fittings of the between-decks.

There shall be a totally separate compartment in the fore part of the between-decks for the accommodation of the single men; and the division shall be effected by means of a shifting frame with wooden or iron bars vertically placed five inches apart, or of iron netting which can be adjusted to the height and width of the between-decks, so as to form a compartment of such size as will be legally capable of accommodating the number of single men intended to be embarked. A division shall also be made in the after part of the between-decks by means of two wooden or iron bars horizontally placed two feet apart, separating the space intended for the accommodation of the number of single women to be embarked from the central space to be occupied by the married persons.

Compartments of between-decks.

The sides and ceiling of the between-decks, the inner surface of the upper hatch combings, and the between decks themselves, to the extent of at least six feet from the sides all round, shall be properly painted with white zinc paint. The centre of the deck may be painted with coal-tar, or with a mixture of carbolic acid and oil, or any other suitable coating approved by the Medical Inspector.

Construction.—Strongly constructed sleeping platforms, 6 feet broad by 2 feet high, shall be fitted on each side, and from end to end of the between-decks, to admit of emigrants sleeping either fore-and-aft, or athwart ship, as circumstances of wind and weather may render most convenient. The sleeping platforms may be either fixed or capable of being folded back or raised up, entirely or partially, when not in use. In the latter case, they shall be so fitted as to admit of their being securely fastened, whether in use at night or put out of the way during the day.

9. Strong ladders, with hand rails on both sides about a foot high, and with a knotted hand rope conveniently near, shall be securely fixed at the hatchways that are not used solely for ventilation purposes, and there shall be at least one at each hatchway fore and aft, and two at the main hatchway.

In ships bound to the West Indies or ~~via~~ South Australia, each hatchway shall be provided with canvas curtains extending from the four sides of the lower opening of the upper deck hatchway to the combings of the lower deck hatchway; and capable of being either fastened below in order to check drafts of cold air from above, or rolled up out of the way when not required.

Lanterns.

Rack.—A rack shall be fitted aft or forward as most convenient for the storage of the total number of safety lanterns when not in use.

Hooks.—Hooks for hanging the required number of lanterns at night shall be fixed where necessary and at convenient distances apart.

A strong double fore-and-aft rail of bamboo or wood shall be fastened to the central stanchions for the emigrants to hang their clothes, and support themselves by holding it when the ship rolls.

Change in the Anchorage limits of the Port of Mangalore.

IN supersession of all previous Notices to Mariners issued from this Department, notice is hereby given that the Gûrpûr, or Northern mouth of the harbour at Mangalore, is closed for traffic for sea-going vessels, owing to the bad state of the mouth and the intricacy of the channel leading into the port.

Patimars and other small native craft may enter at high-water by the Ullal or Southern mouth, and will find good anchorage inside the sand spit near the Southern Boundary Pillar; but as the bar is very shallow, no buggalows, koties, or other large native vessels can enter the harbour laden, nor find any shelter from North-Westers prevailing in March, April, and May. All such vessels bound for the Port of Mangalore should therefore be provided with good ground tackle for anchoring in the outer roadstead in not less than 4 fathoms of water (low water), with the lighthouse bearing between E. by N. and N.E. by E.

CALCUTTA CANALS AND TOLLY'S NULLAH.

No. 130.—The following resolution and notification, having reference to the abovenamed canals, are published in supersession of No. 120, bearing date the 23rd instant, which was published at page 284, Part I, Calcutta Gazette of the 24th idem.

LEAD.

Report of the Committee appointed to enquire into and report on the working and management of the Circular Canals.

Report by the Board of Revenue.

Letter from the Board of Revenue giving details of existing administrative arrangements.

Note by Chief Engineer.

RESOLUTION.

In discussing the general management of these canals the Committee reported that since 1855 the supervision of the Calcutta Canals has been directly under the Commissioner of the Nuddea or Presidency Division, and they did not consider that this has worked well. There was not, however, a consensus of opinion as to what change should be made, two of the Committee recommending that the Supervisor should be placed under the Magistrate-Collector of the 24-Pergunnas, one member being of opinion that the canals should form a sub-division of the Eastern and Circular Canals Division under the Executive Engineer.

The question was an important one, and the opinions of the Commissioner and of the Board of Revenue were specially called for. The former upheld the proposal to place the general management under the Magistrate-Collector, while the Board of Revenue considered that the existing system should hold, or that the Supervisor should work directly under the Board. On a full consideration of all that has been urged, the Lieutenant-Governor is of opinion that the present system fails in securing that close personal supervision which is so much needed, while nothing would be gained by a transfer to the Magistrate-Collector, that officer being quite as unable as the Commissioner of the Presidency Division to afford the necessary leisure. It has never been the practice for the Board of Revenue in its single or collective capacity to visit, inspect, and examine the working of any department. All the action they could take would be upon the submission of returns and reports, and this is not exactly the system which the necessities of the case most require. His Honor is therefore of opinion that the working of these canals should be placed under the control and direction of the Public Works Department, subject to the orders of Government in the Irrigation Department of Public Works. Accordingly the following notification is issued.

The other proposals and recommendations of the Committee will be dealt with departmentally.

NOTIFICATION.

It is hereby notified for general information that from the 1st April next the management of the Calcutta Canals will vest in the Public Works Department, and that the regulation of the traffic and collection of tolls will be carried out for the present according to the rules in force from time to time, under the orders of the Supervisor, Mr. W. R. Cooksey, subject to the control of the Superintending Engineer of the South-Western Circle. The duties of the Executive Engineer of the Eastern and Circular Canals Division in relation to these canals will continue as heretofore, but it will be competent to the Superintending Engineer to depute that officer to examine and report upon the working of the canals as occasion may require.

The 30th March 1886.

No. 131.—Notification.—Agreeably to section VI of the Canals Act, V of 1864 (B.C.), it is hereby notified that, on and after the 1st April 1886, licences for a period not exceeding six months will be granted on the rates mentioned below for boats plying on the Circular Canal between the locks at Dhappa and Chitpo. The number of licences will be restricted to 20, and boats carrying such license will have free use of the canal within the locks named above—

	Rs.	A.
For boats measuring up to 150 maunds	5	0 per mensem.
For every additional 50 maunds above 150 maunds	2	8 ditto.

Licenses can be obtained on application to the Supervisor of the Calcutta Canals.

This cancels notification No. 122, dated 2nd instant, which was published at page 285, Part I, Calcutta Gazette of the 24th idem.

ESTABLISHMENT—IRRIGATION.

The 30th March 1886.

No. 132.—Posting.—With reference to Notification No. 102, dated the 15th March 1886, Mr. C. J. L. Middleton, Executive Engineer, fourth grade, sub pro tem, is posted to the Pooree Division.

IRRIGATION.

The 30th March 1886.

No. 133.—Declaration.—Whereas it appears to the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal that land is required to be taken by Government at the public expense for a public purpose, viz., for replacing the chakran lands of Nader Chand Chowkidar of Becharhat, acquired for the Eden Canal, in the village of Becharhat, pergunnah Burdwan, zillah Burdwan, it is hereby declared that for the above purpose a piece of land measuring, more or less, 1 bigha 18 cottahs and 4 chittacks of standard measurement, bounded on the north by the Eden Canal, east by Srinath Moochee's Mal land and Protap Chowkidar's chakran land, south by Burdwan Maharaja's Khaspatit land, and west by Gossain Dass Keondoo's tank, is required within the aforesaid village of Becharhat.
